Handwritten text in Devanagari script on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the leaf. Two circular holes are visible, used for binding multiple leaves together. The script is finely etched into the surface of the dried leaf.

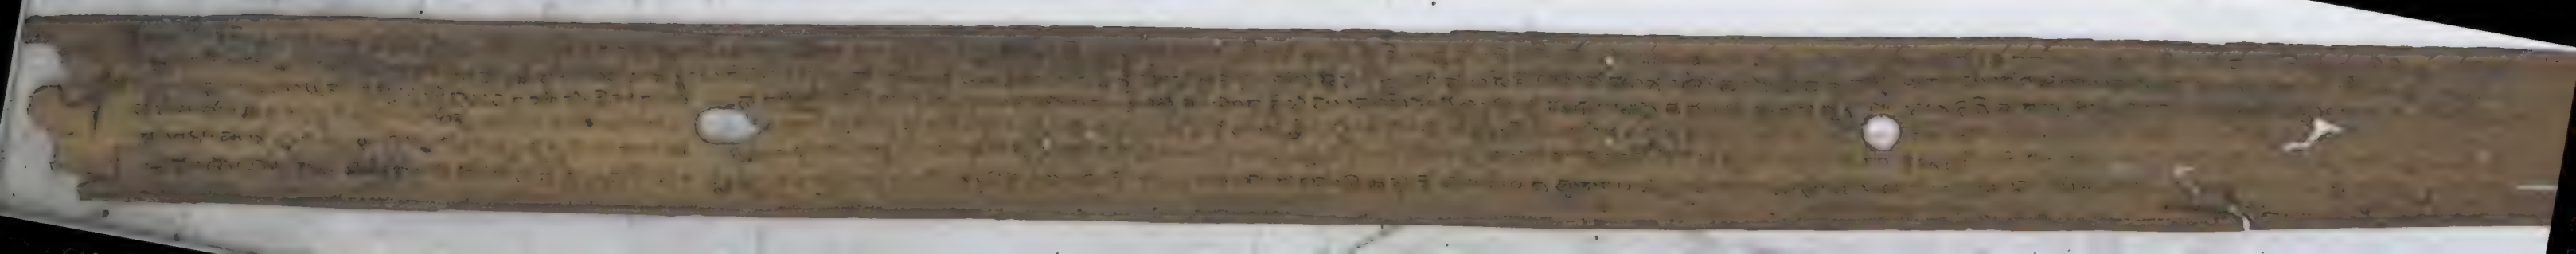

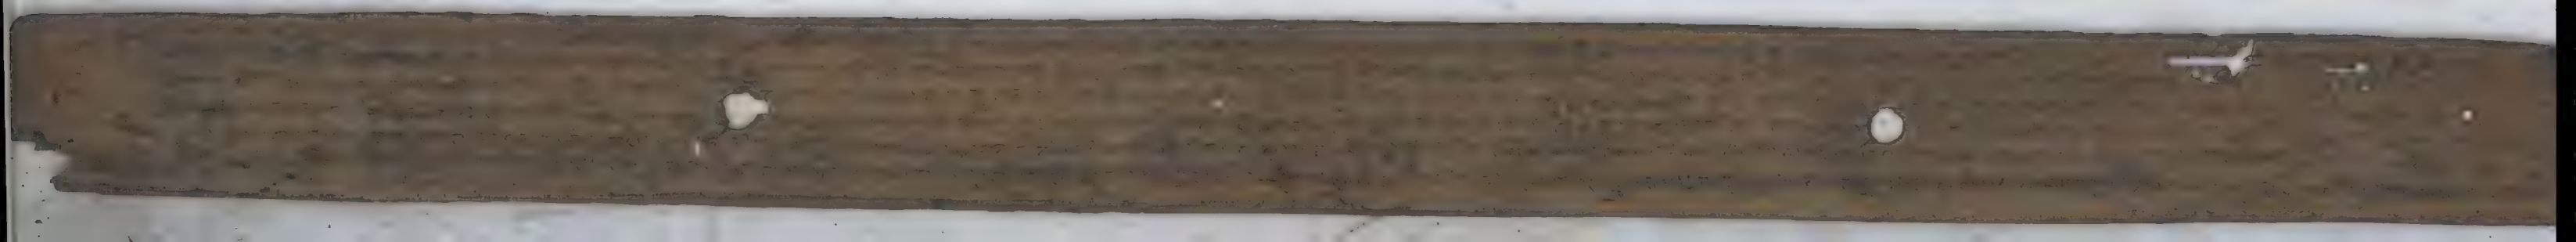

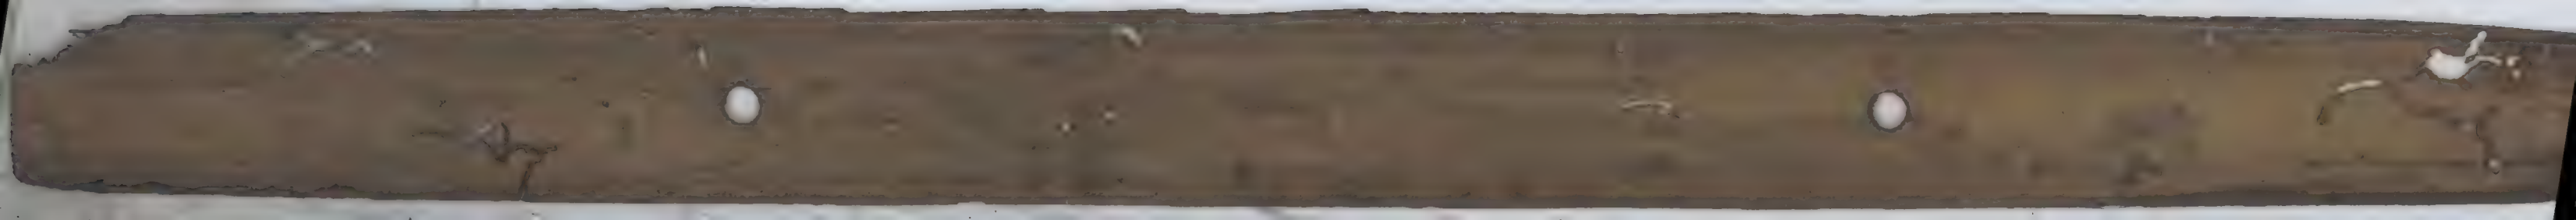

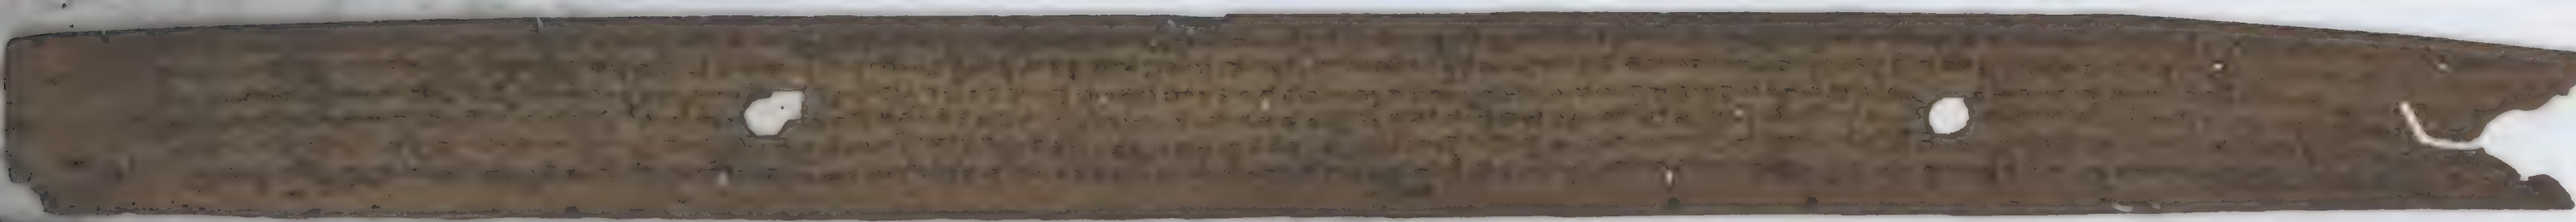

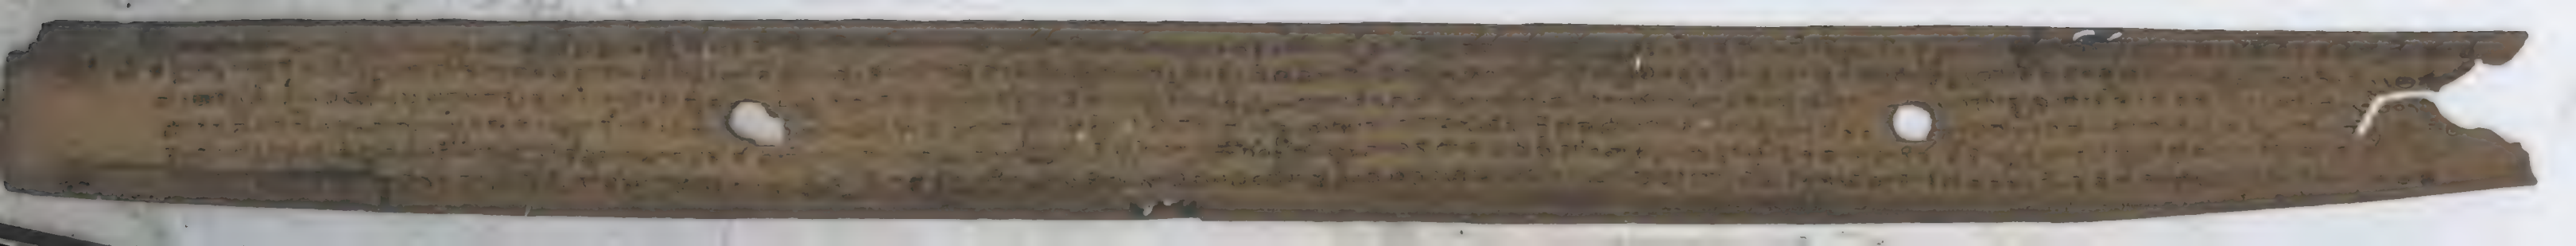

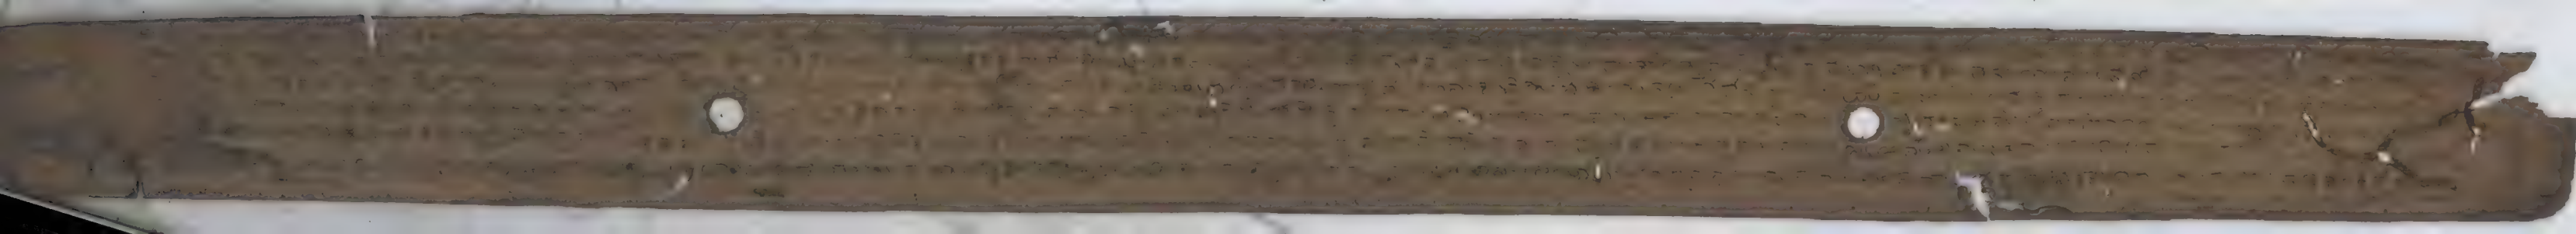

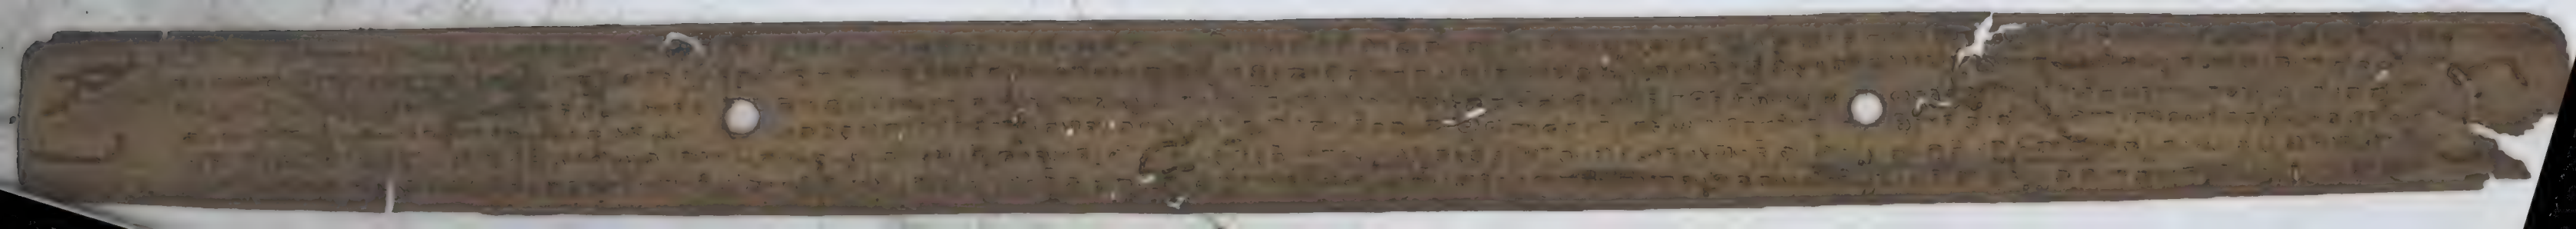

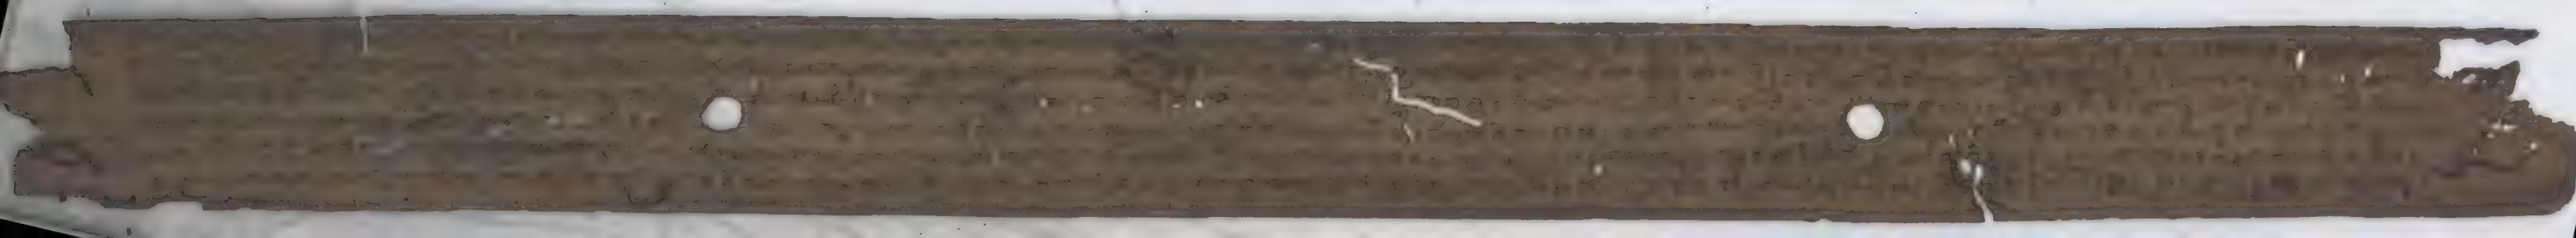

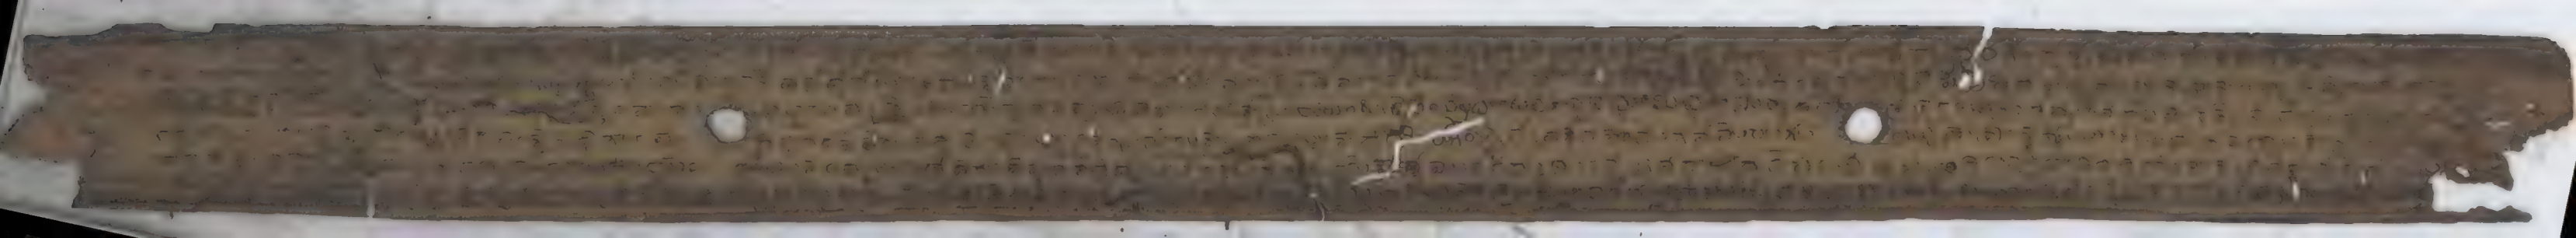

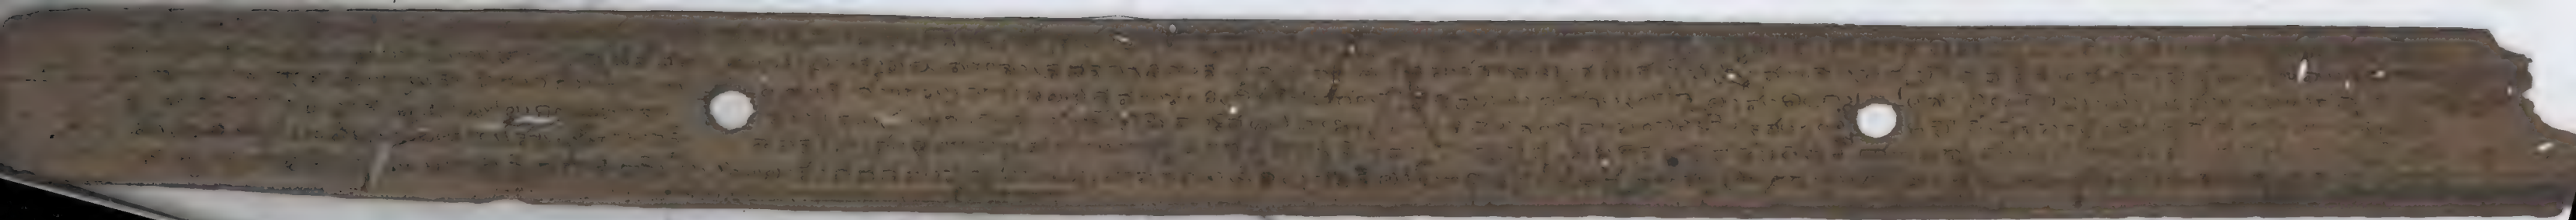

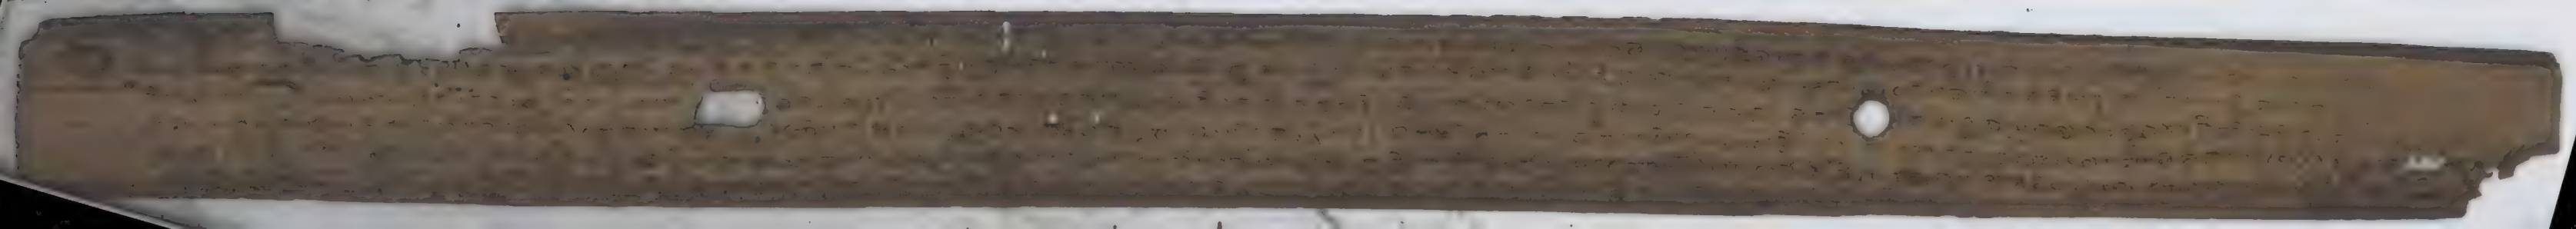

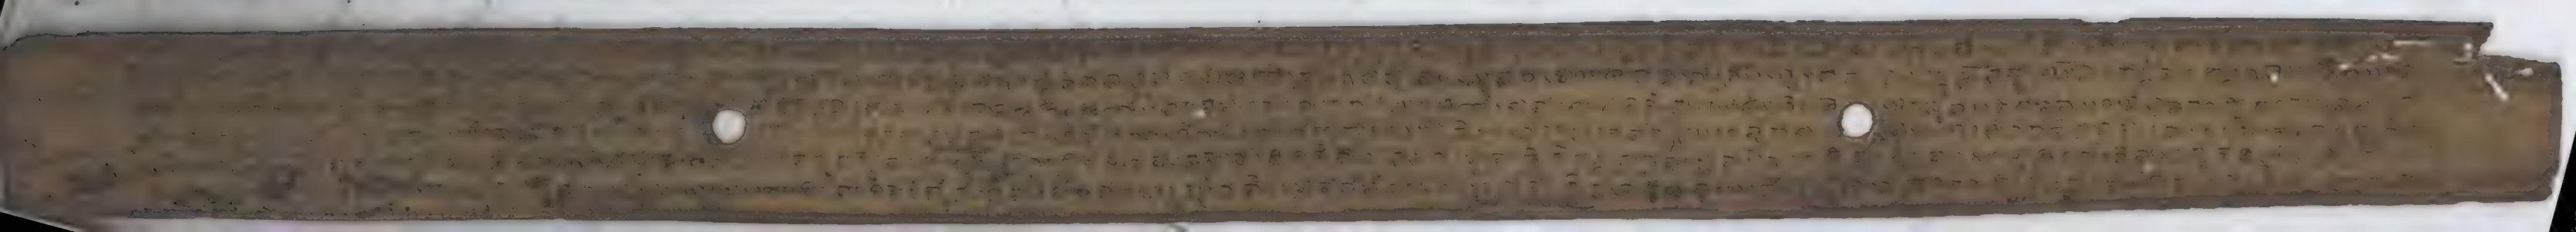

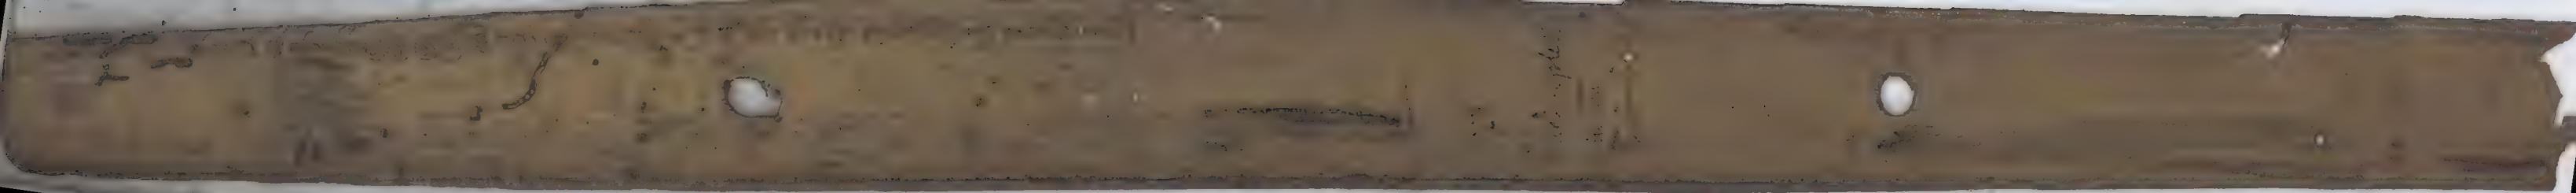

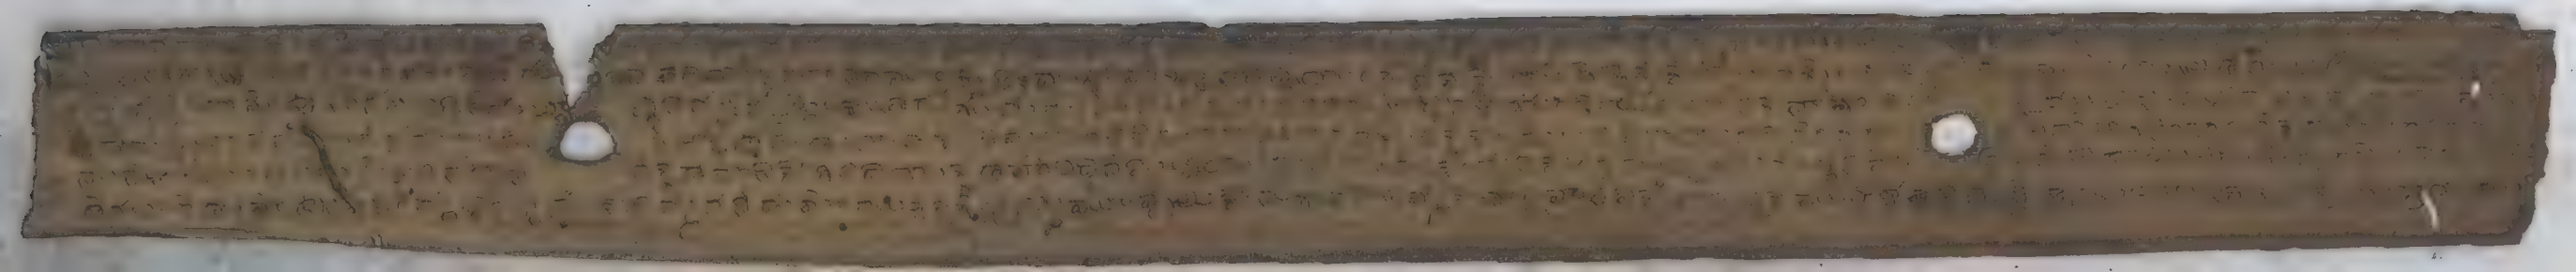

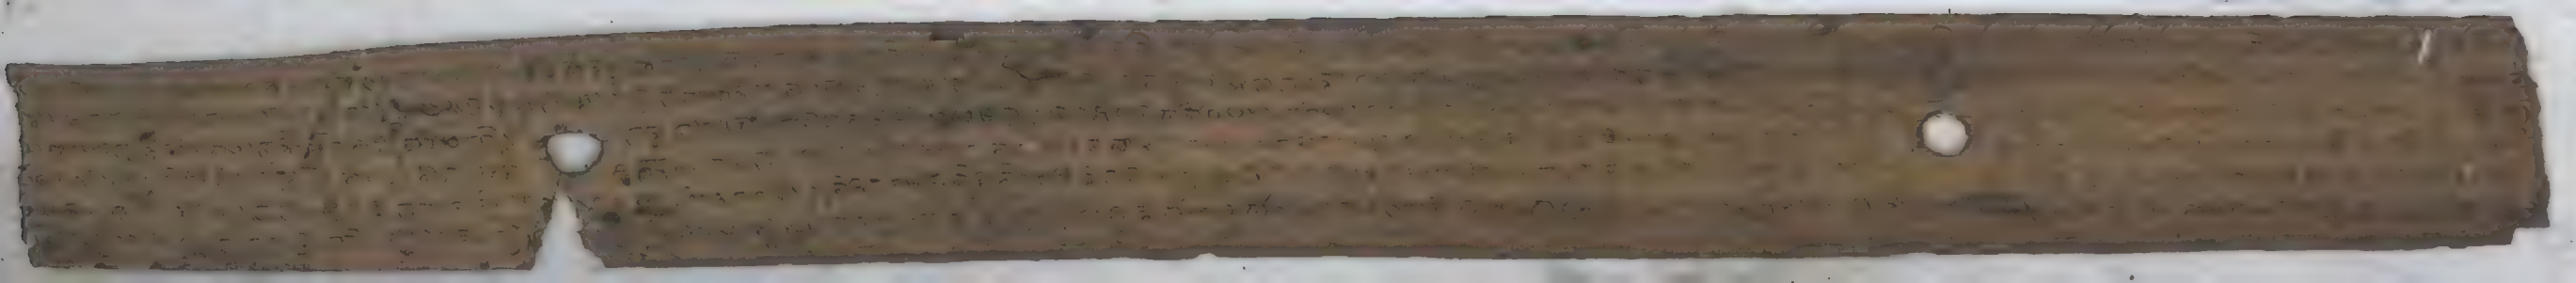

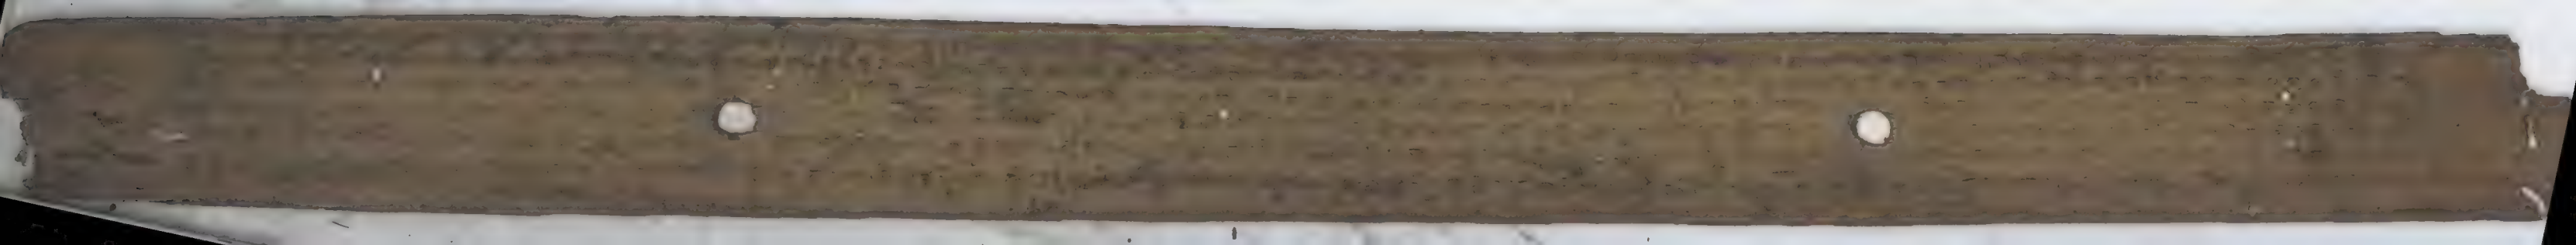

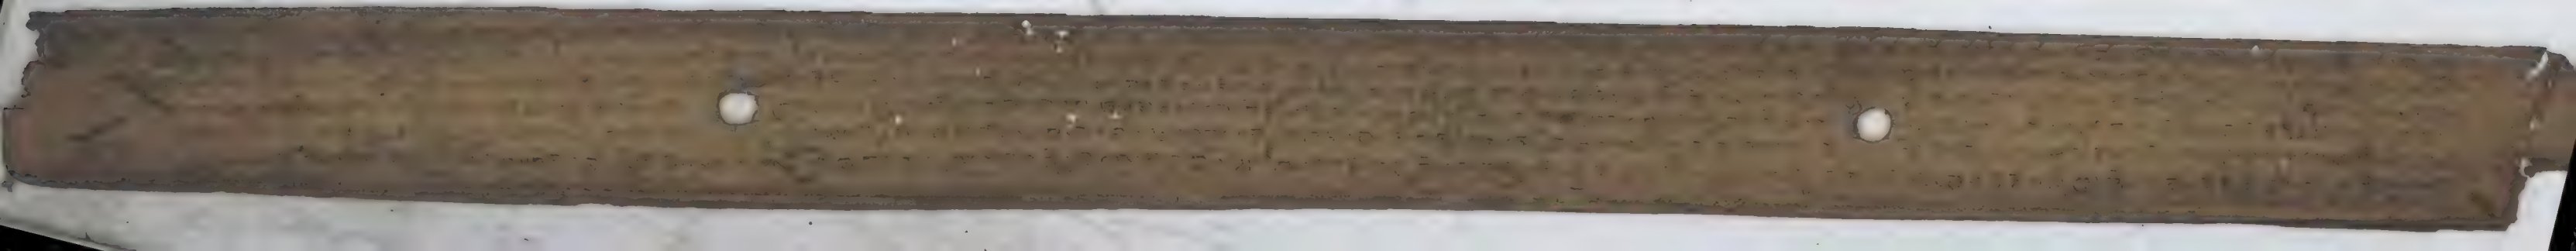

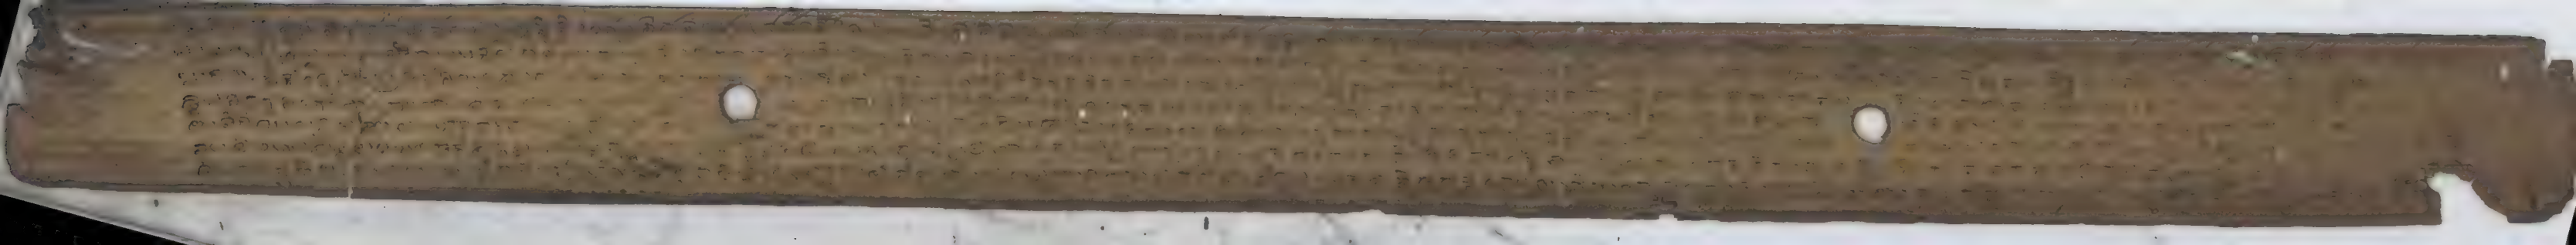

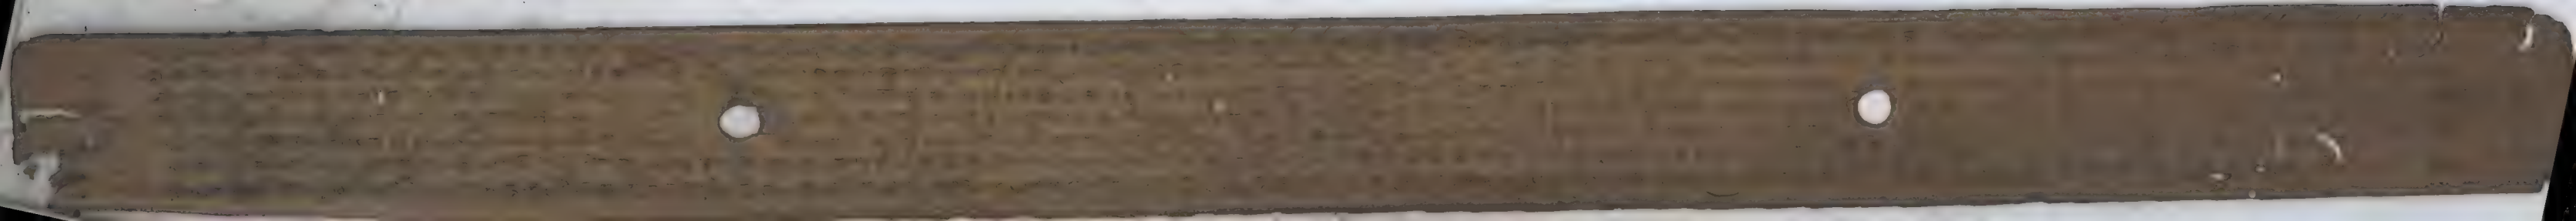

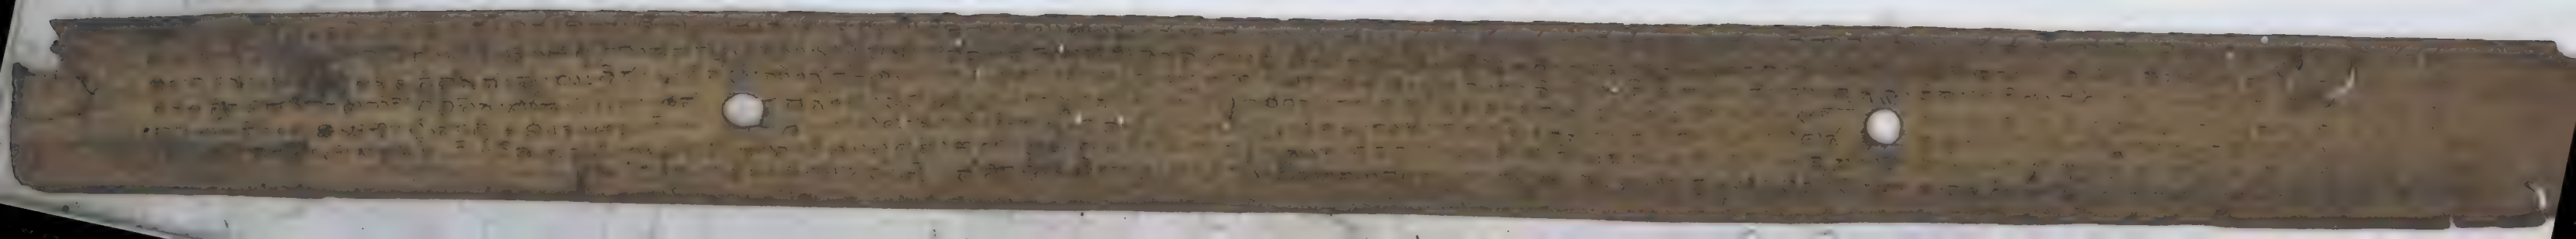

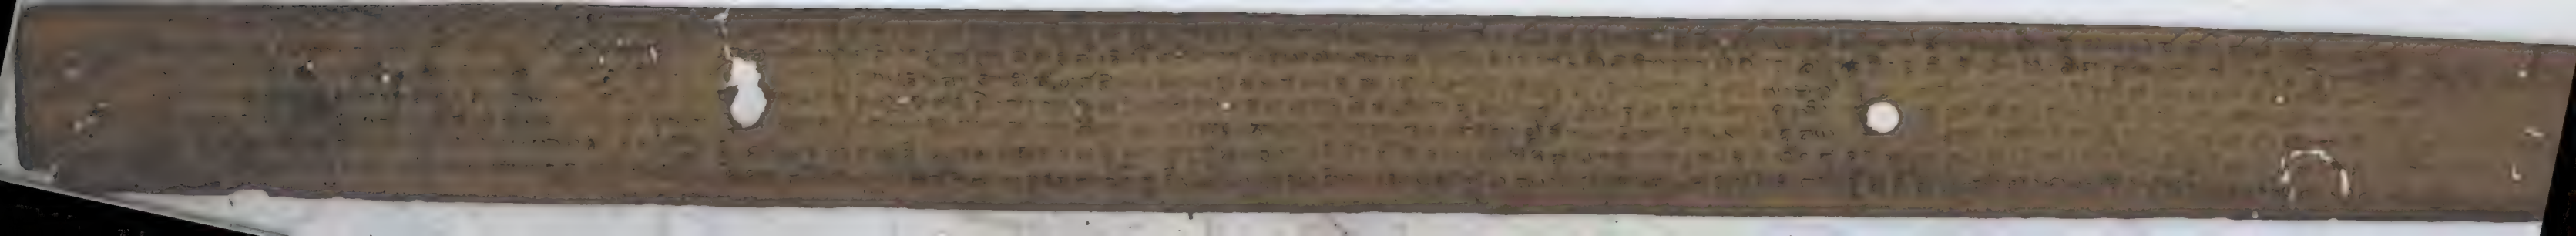

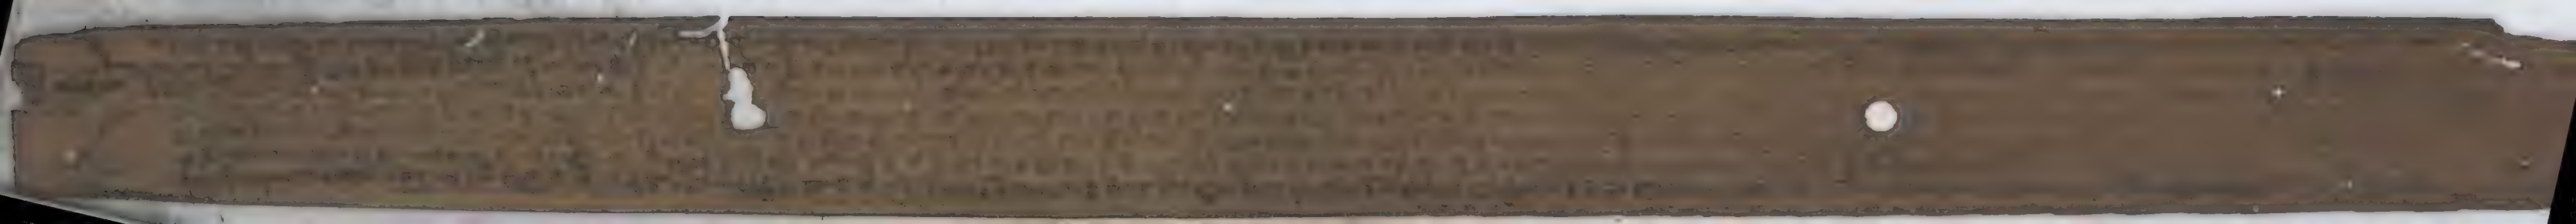

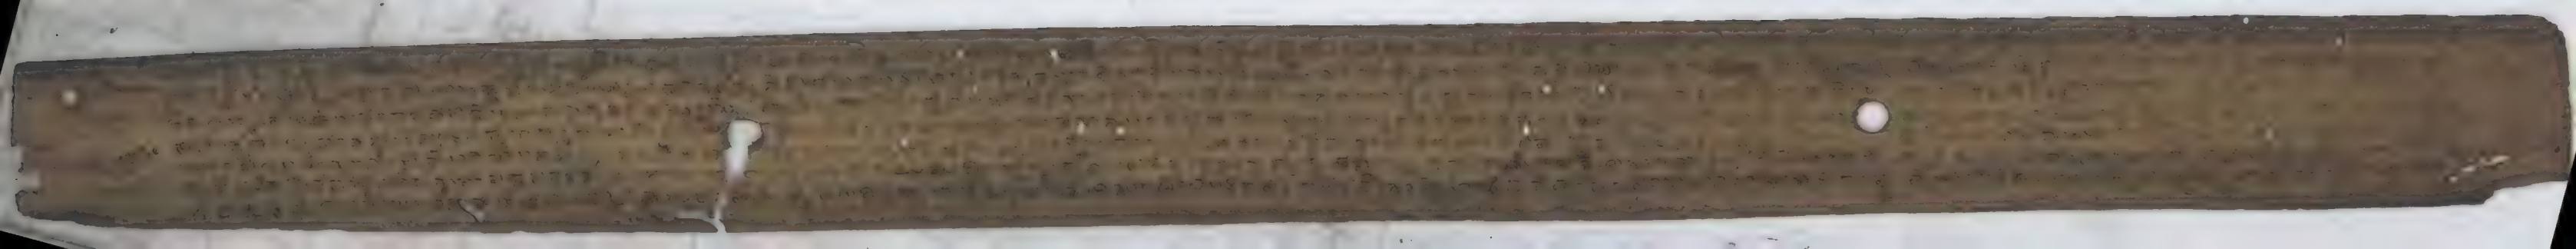

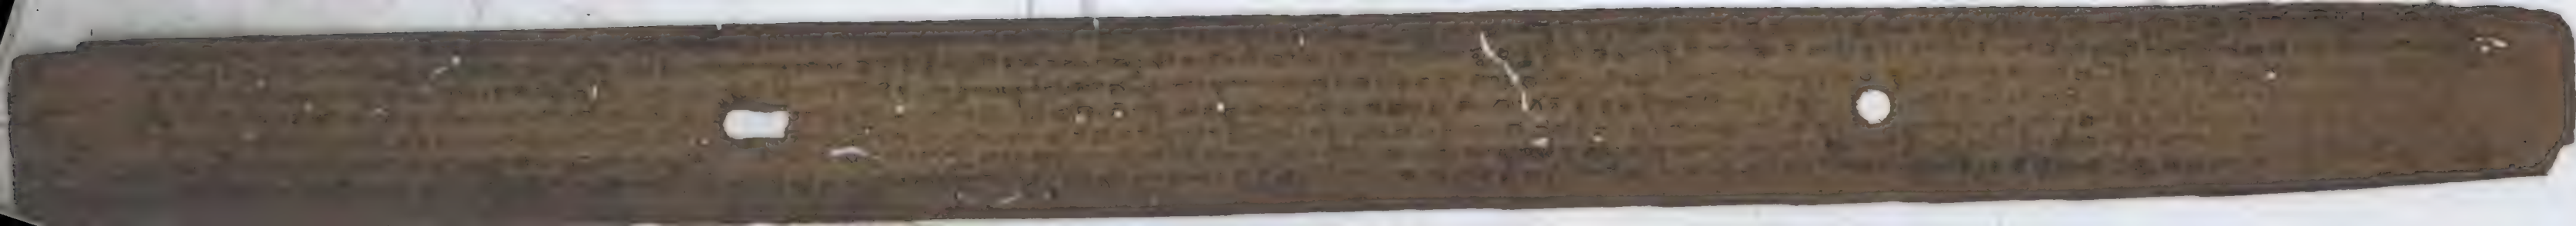

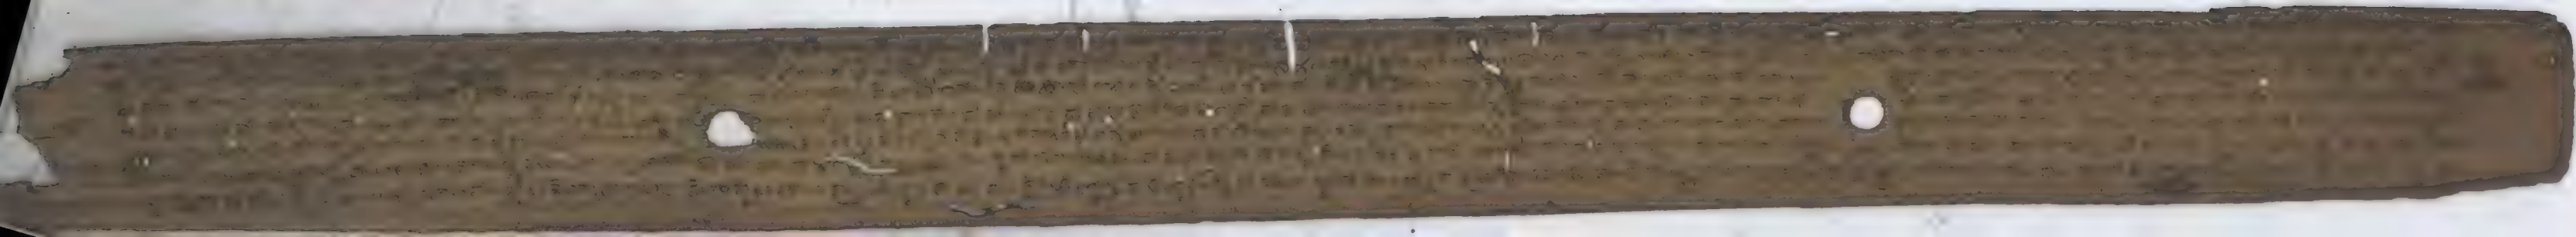

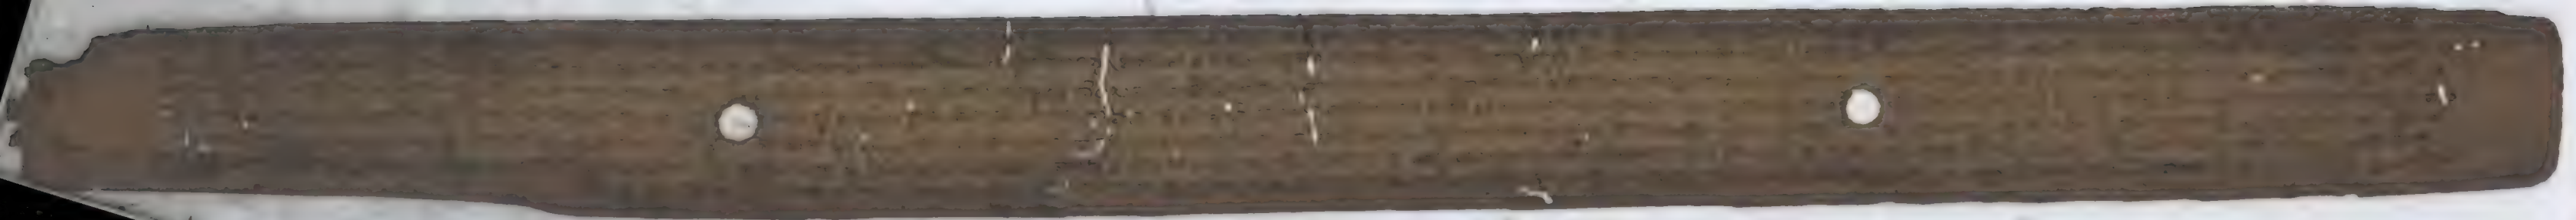

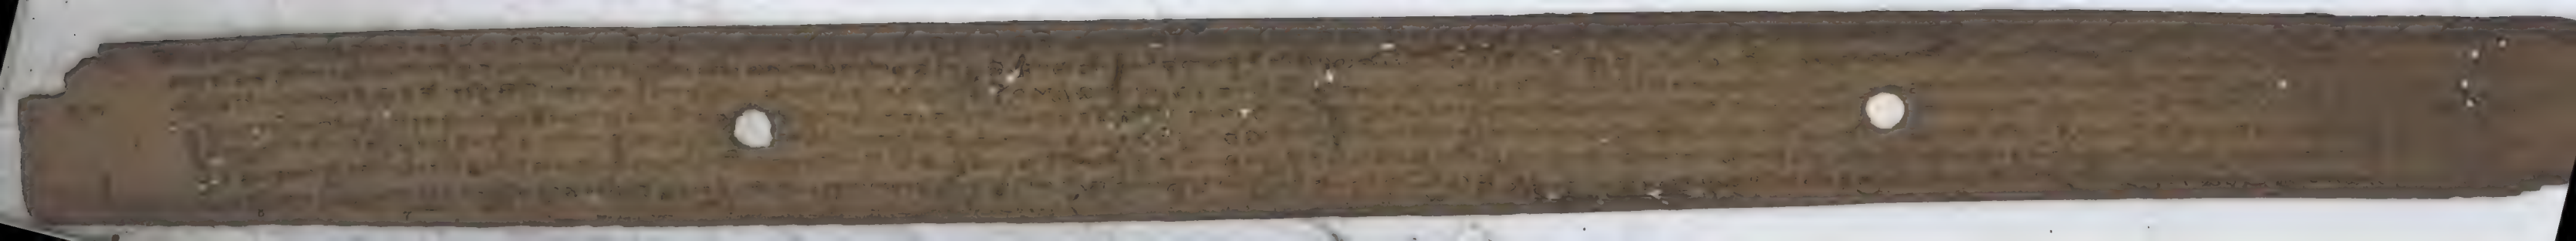

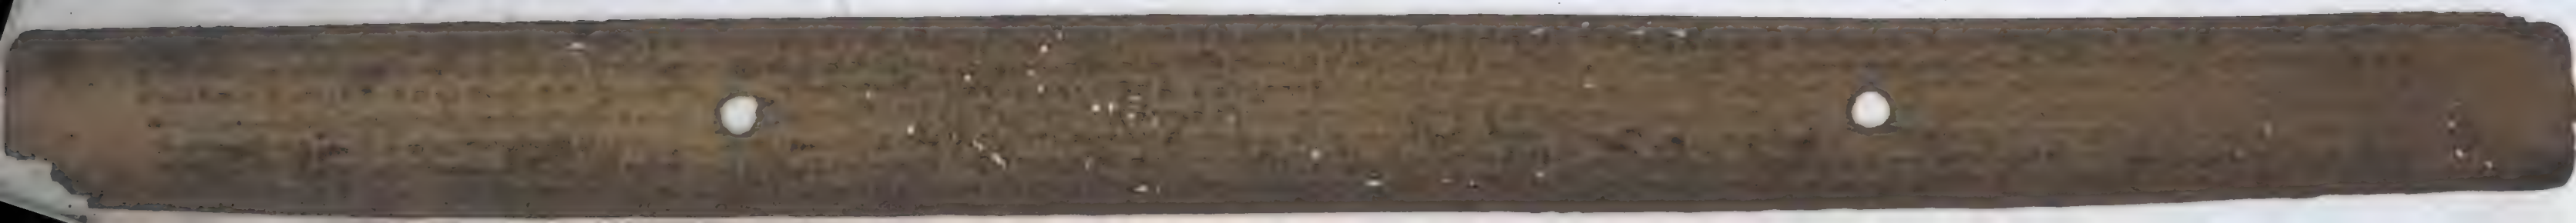

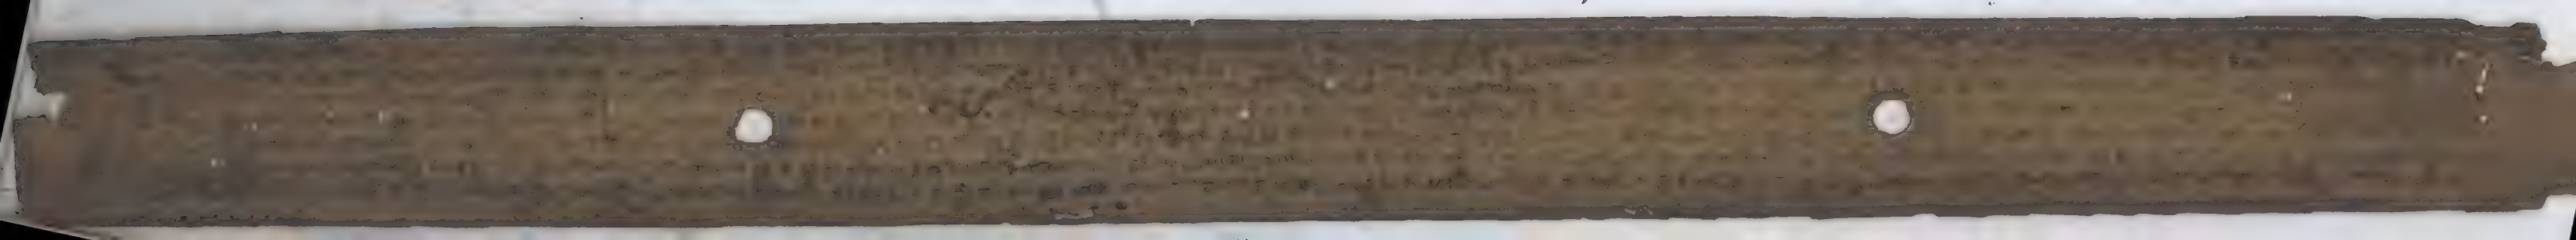

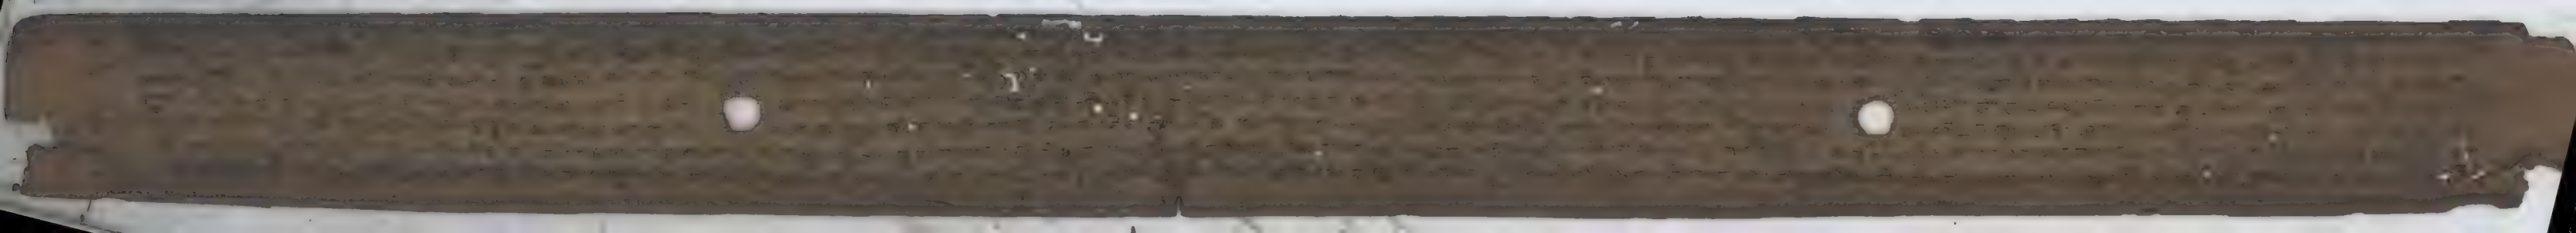

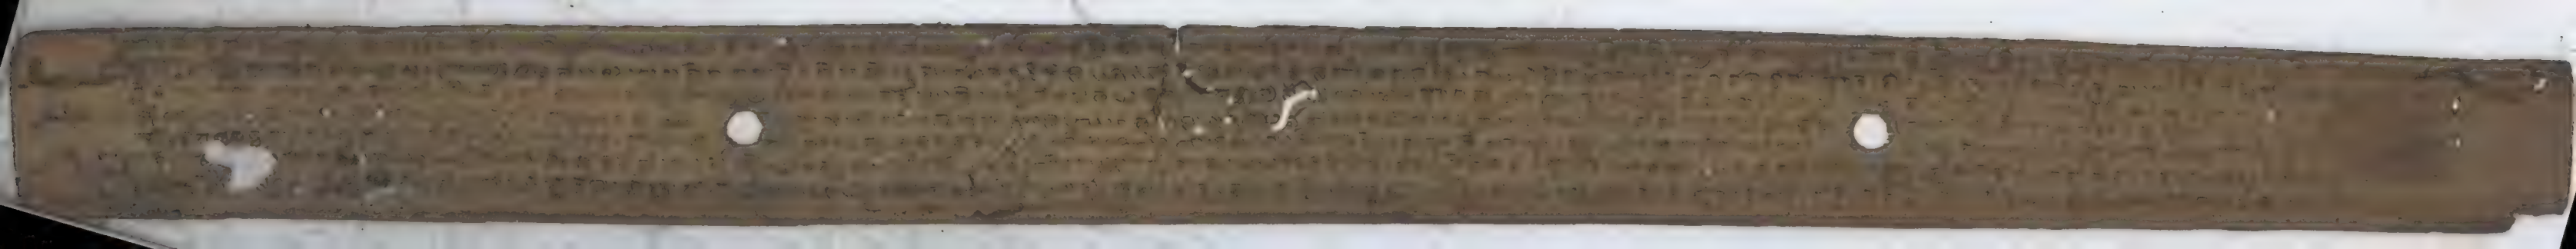

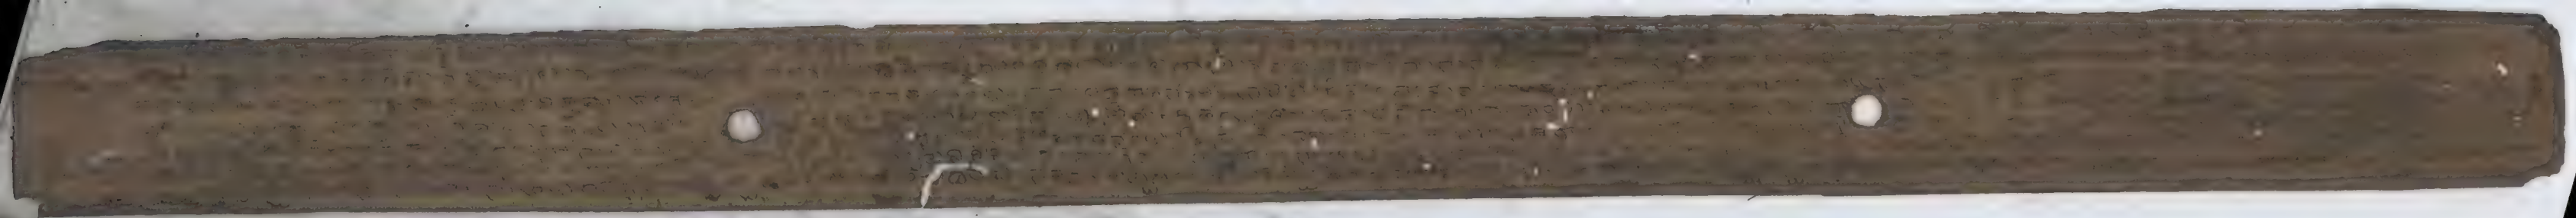

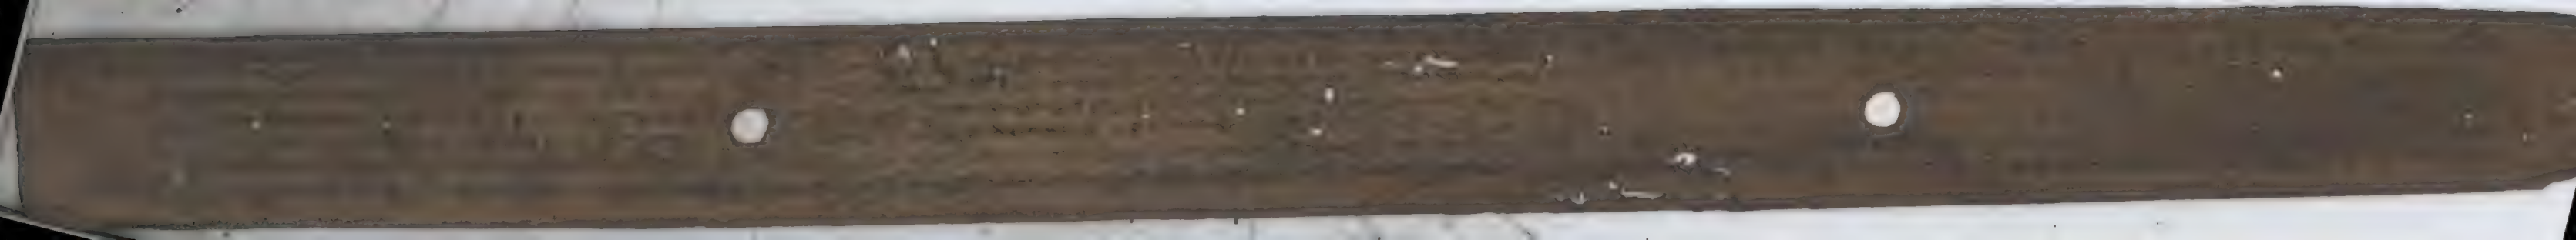

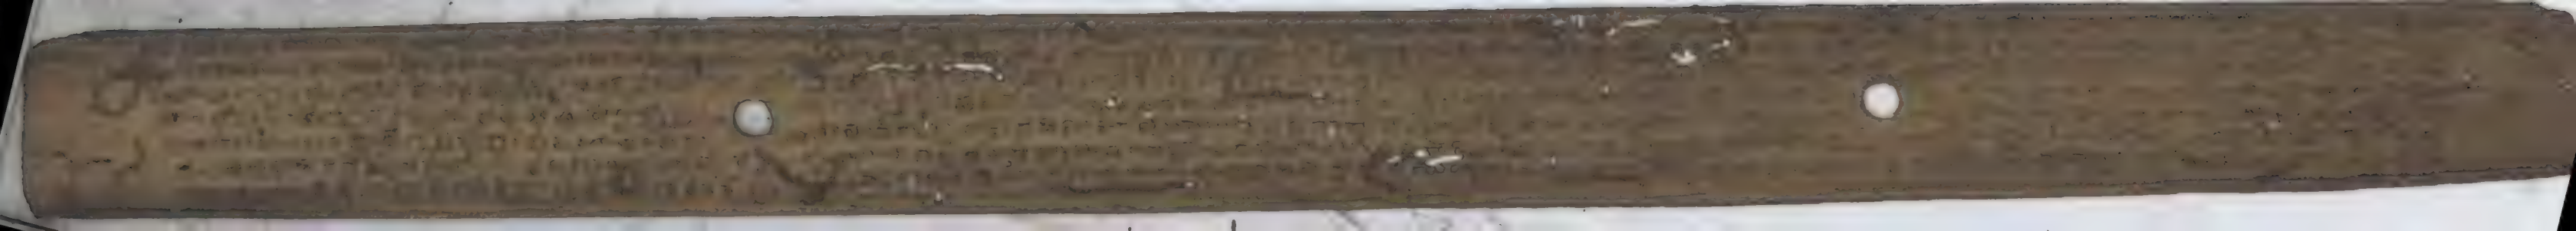

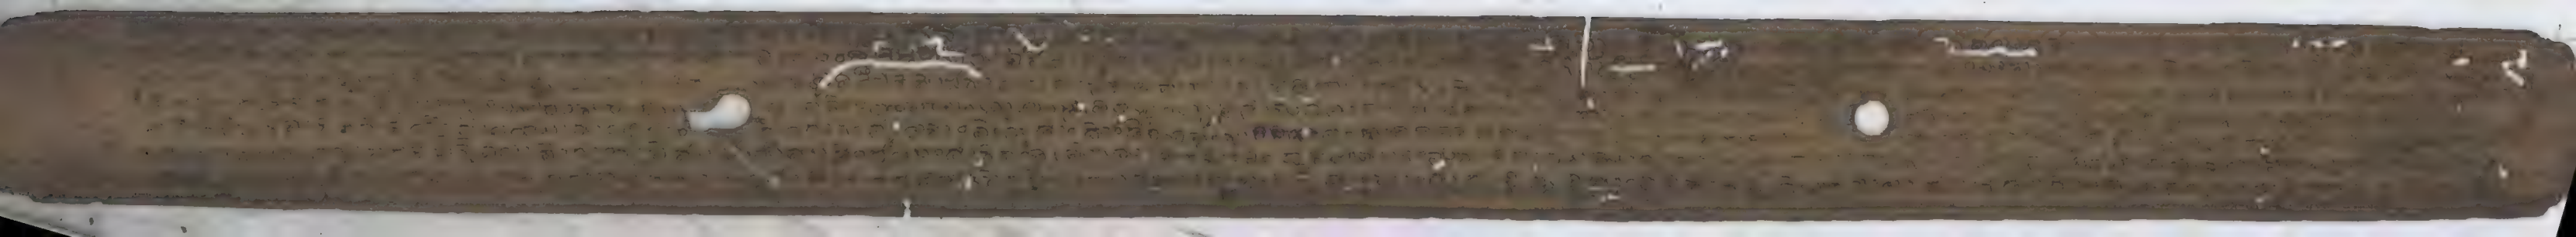

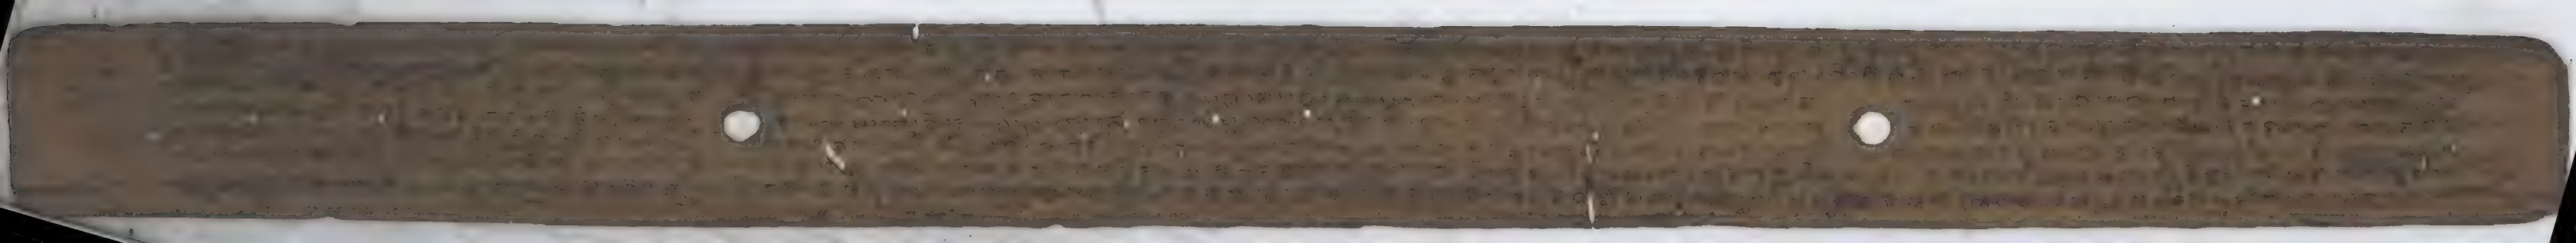

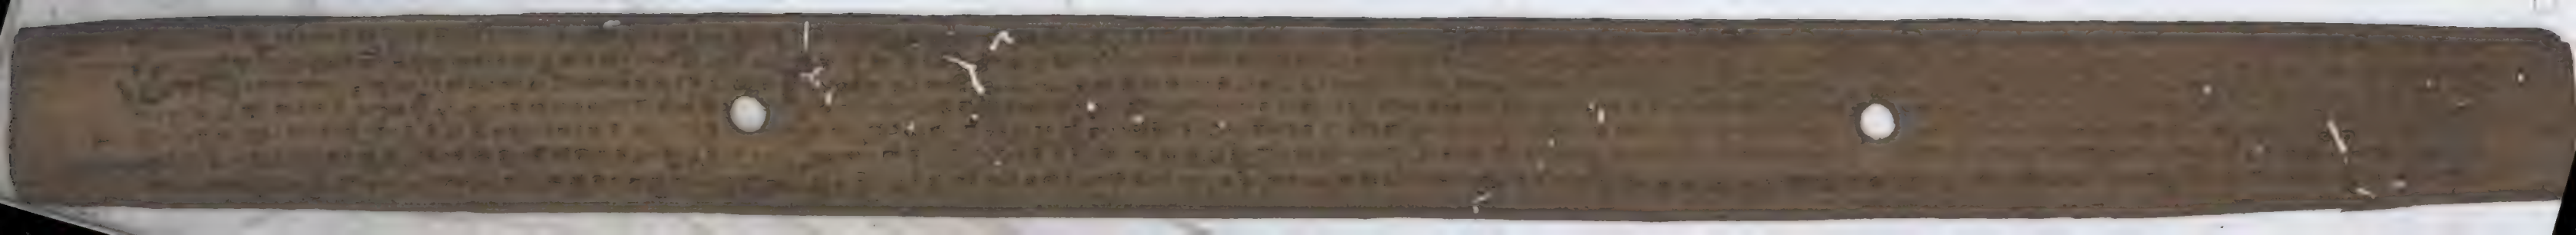

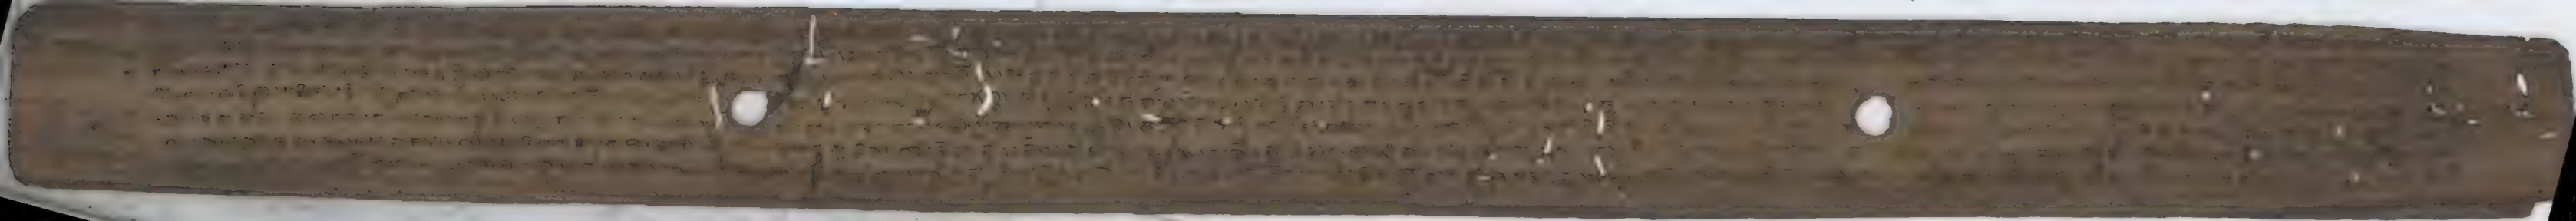

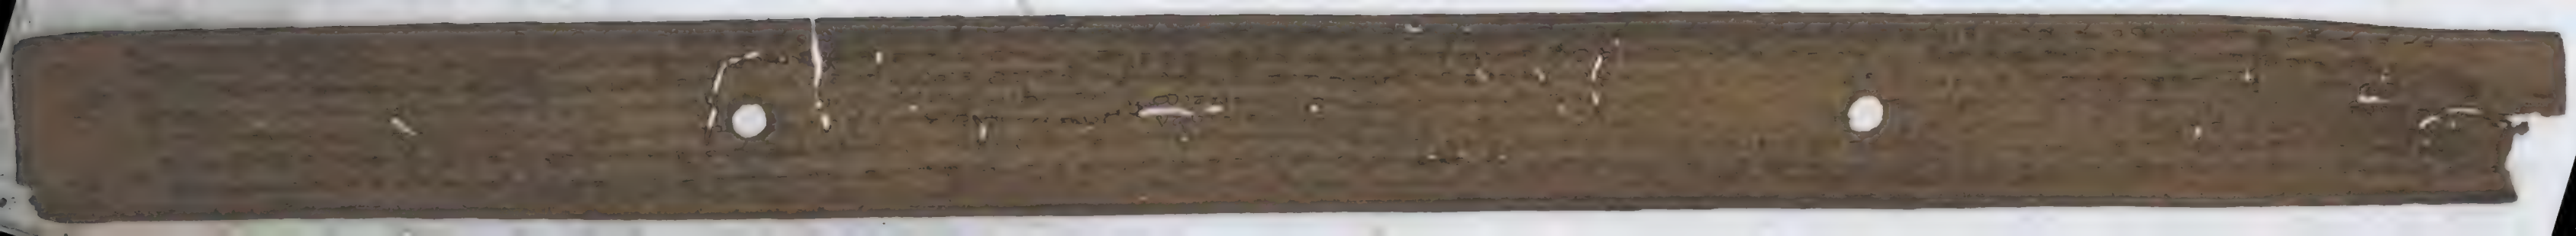

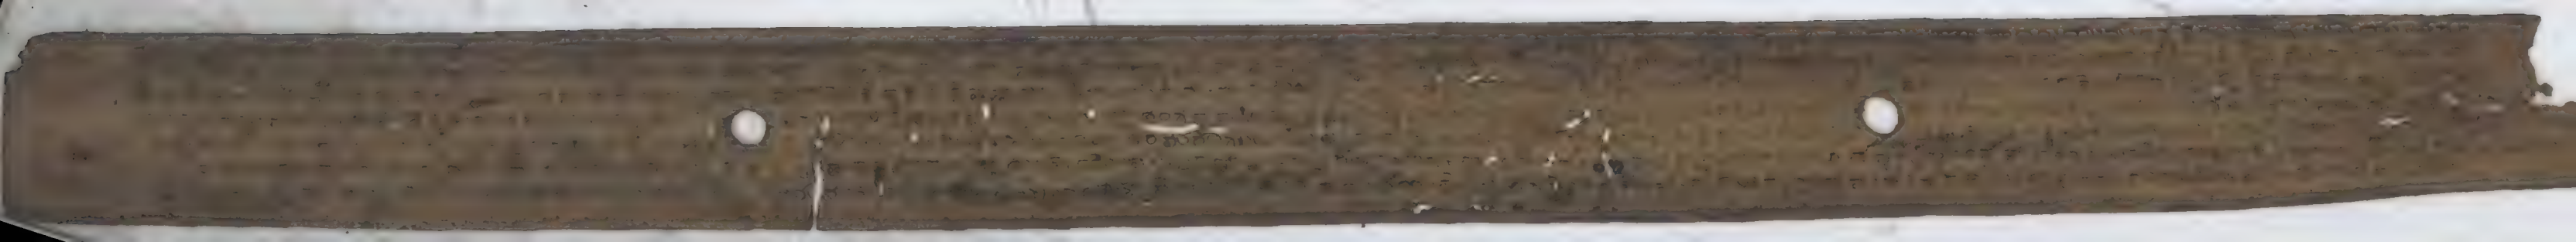

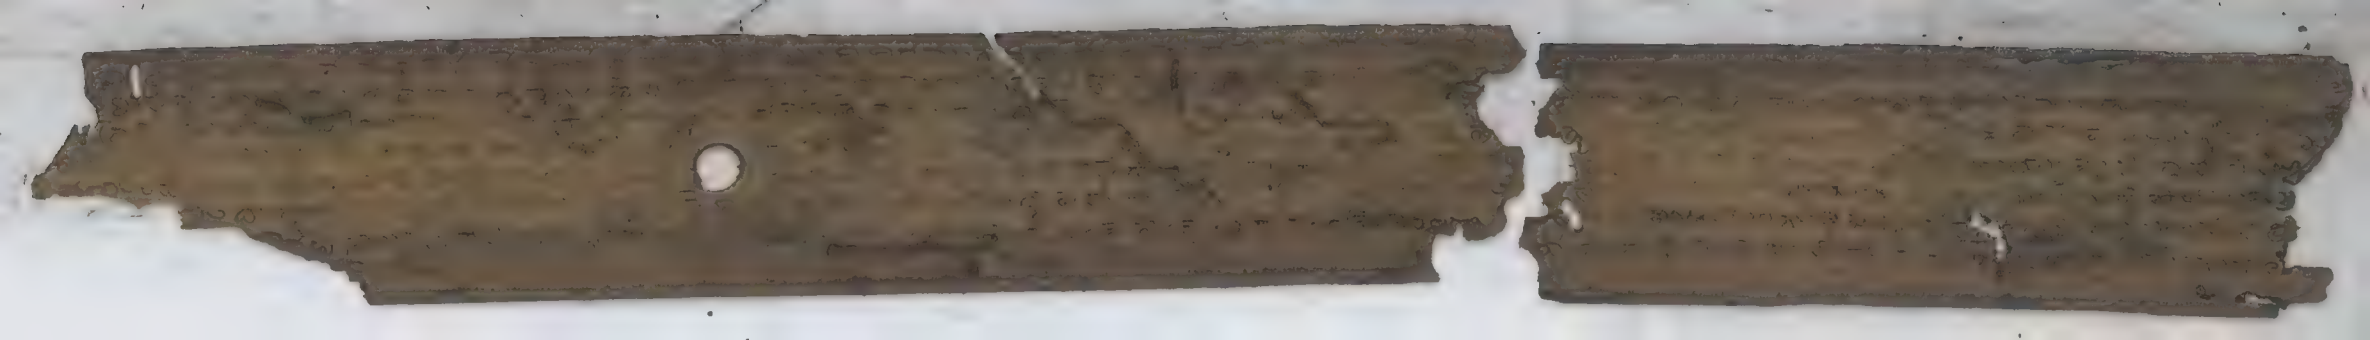

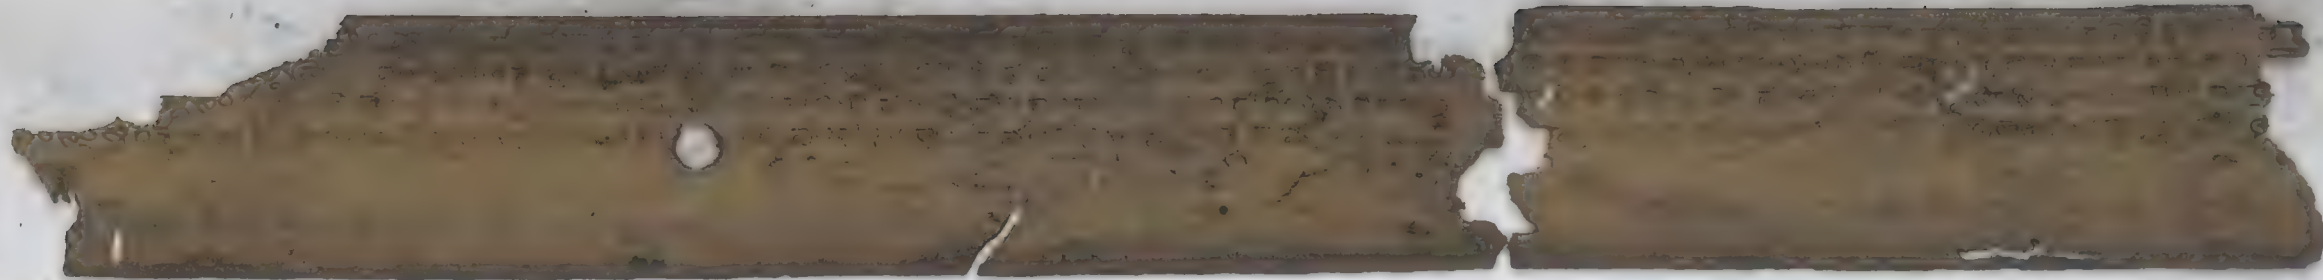

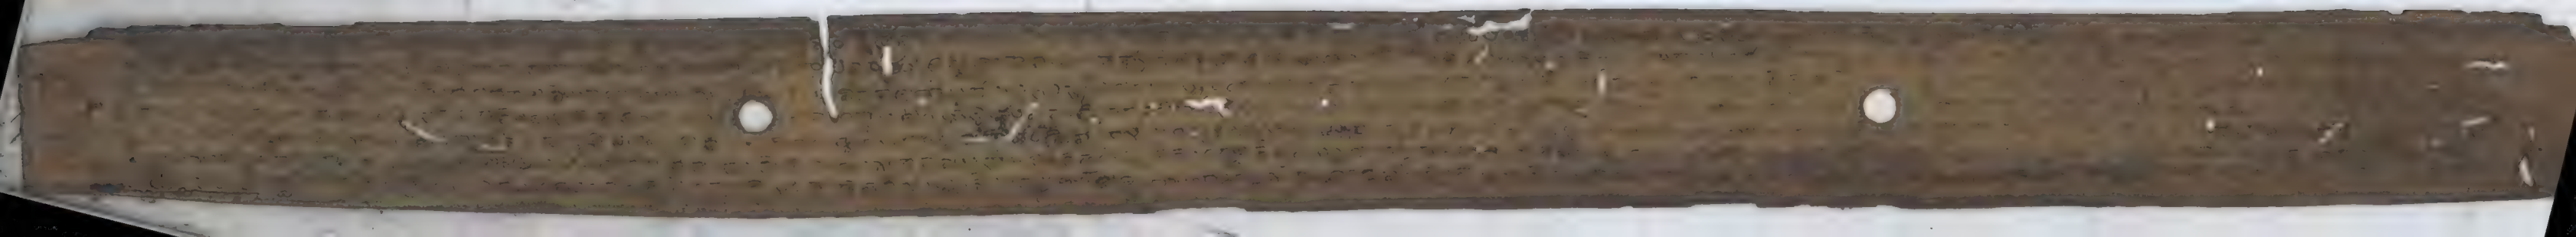

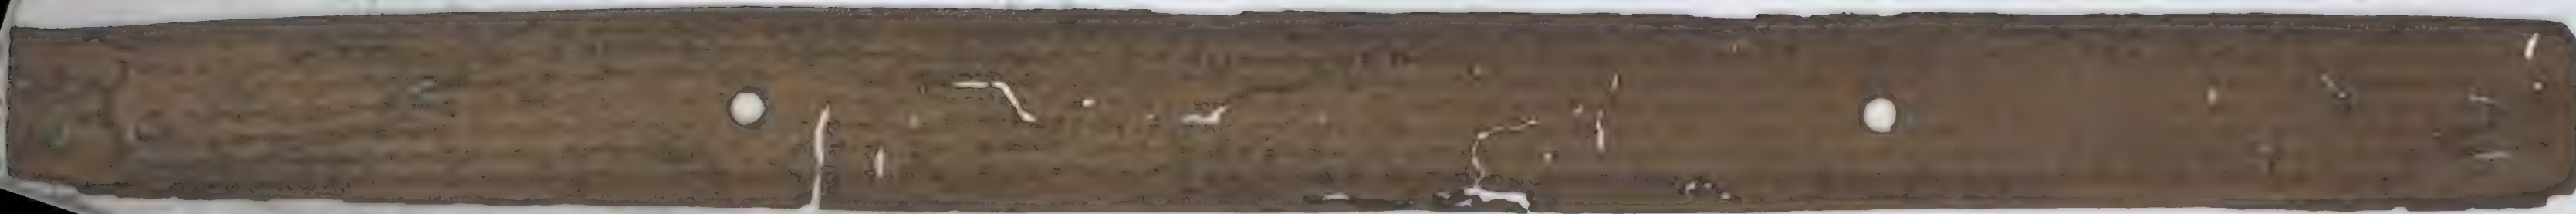

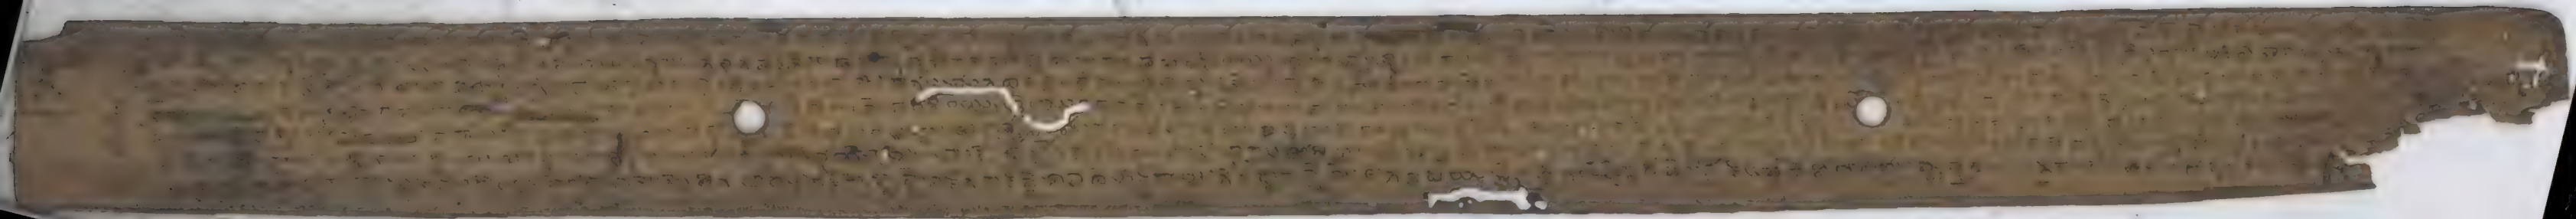

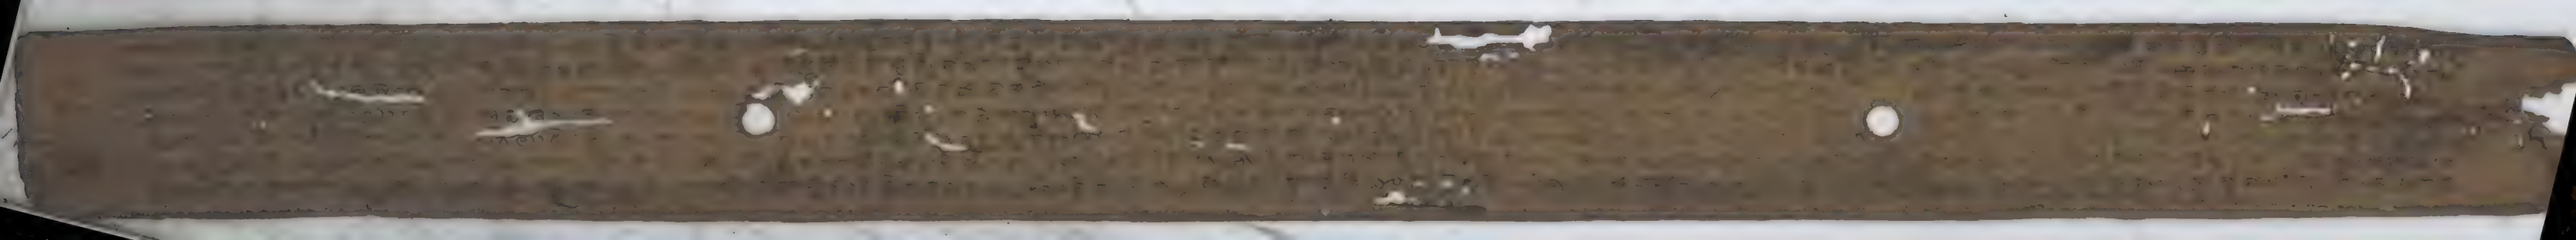

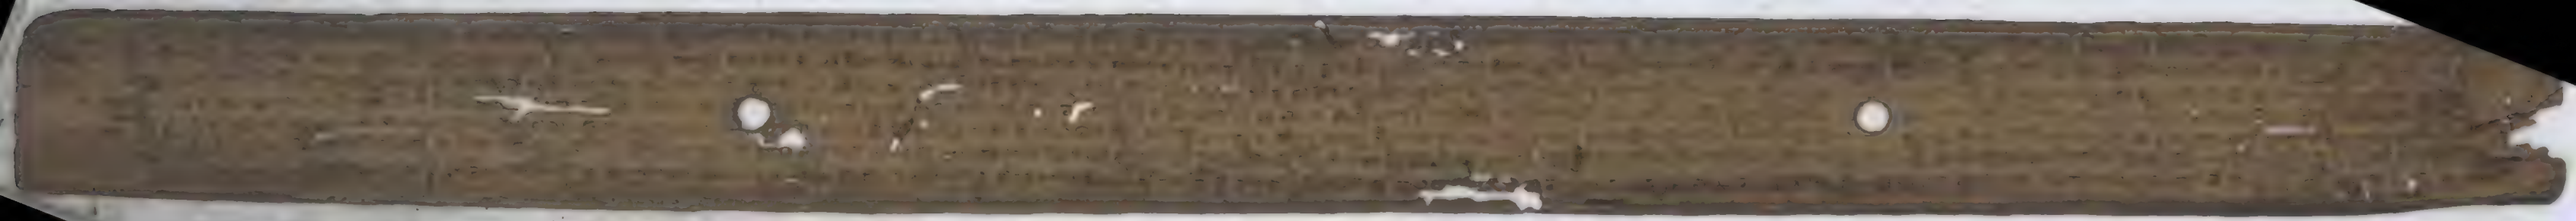

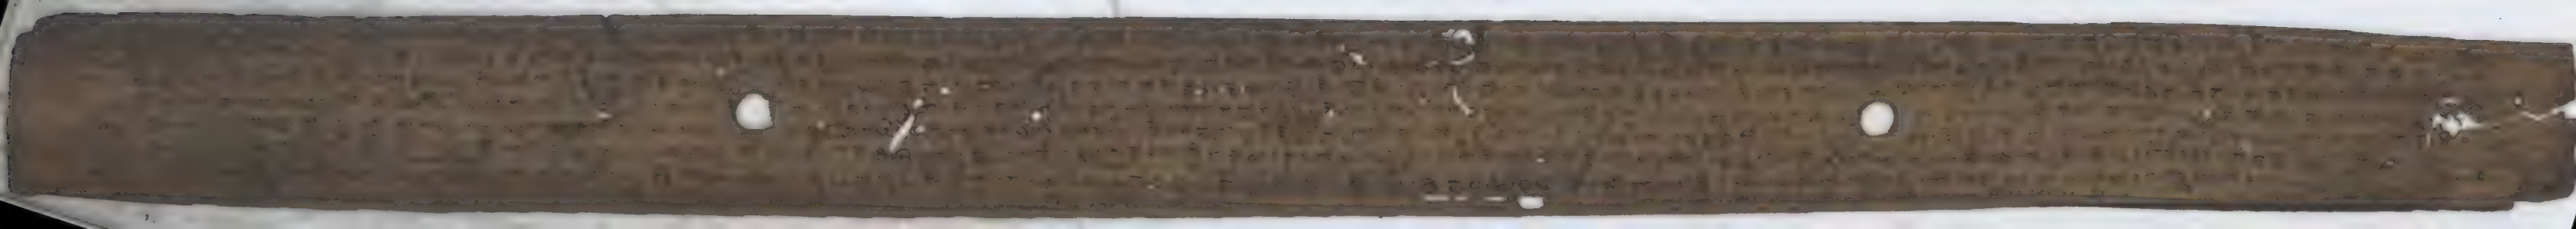

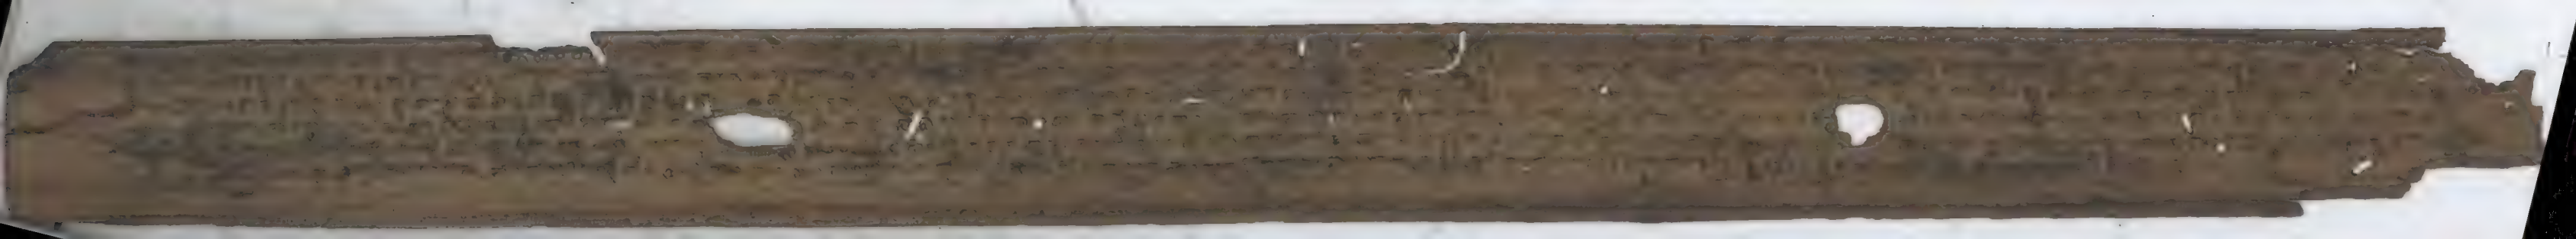

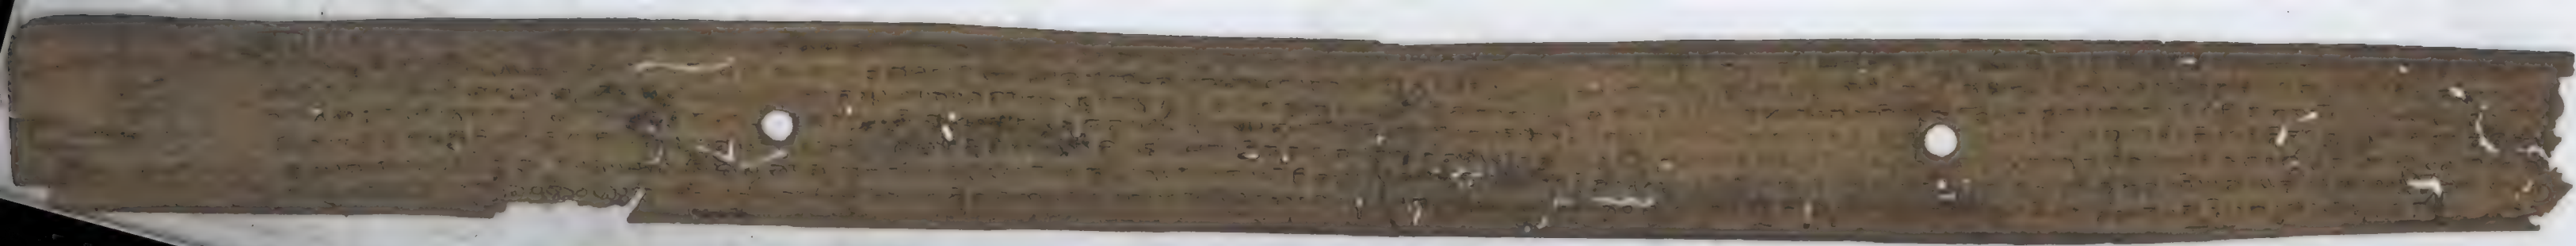

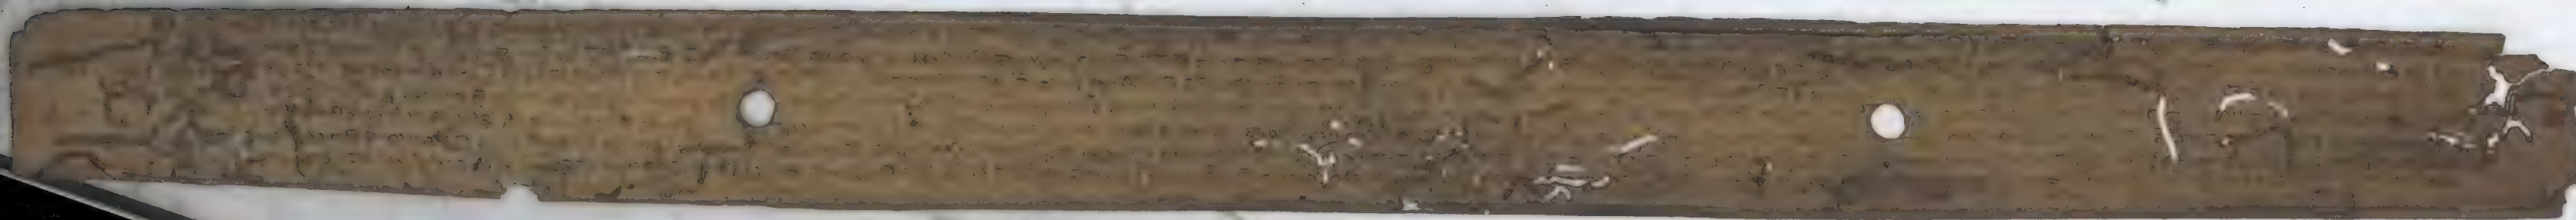

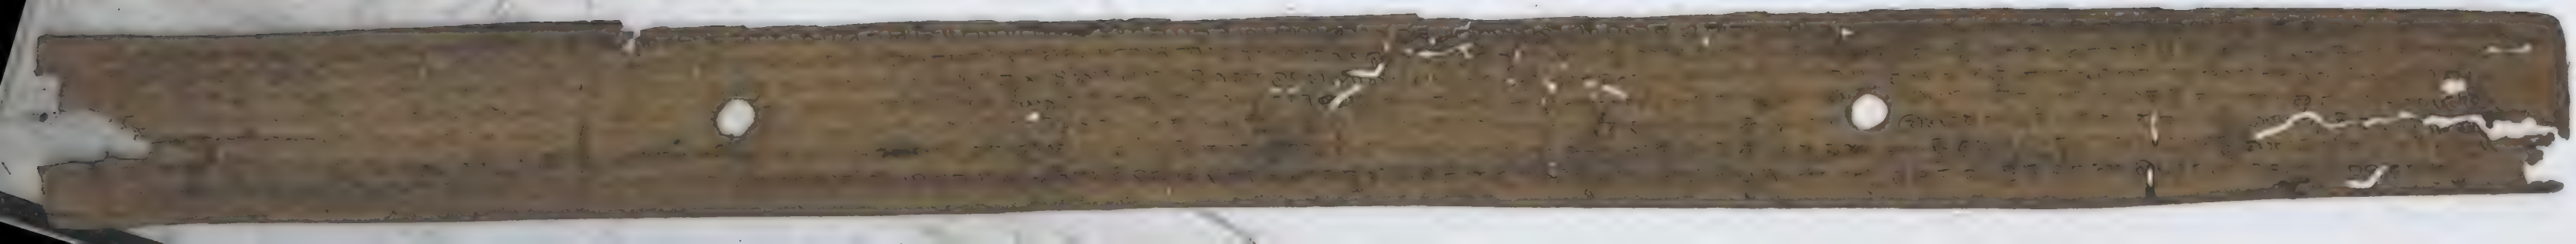

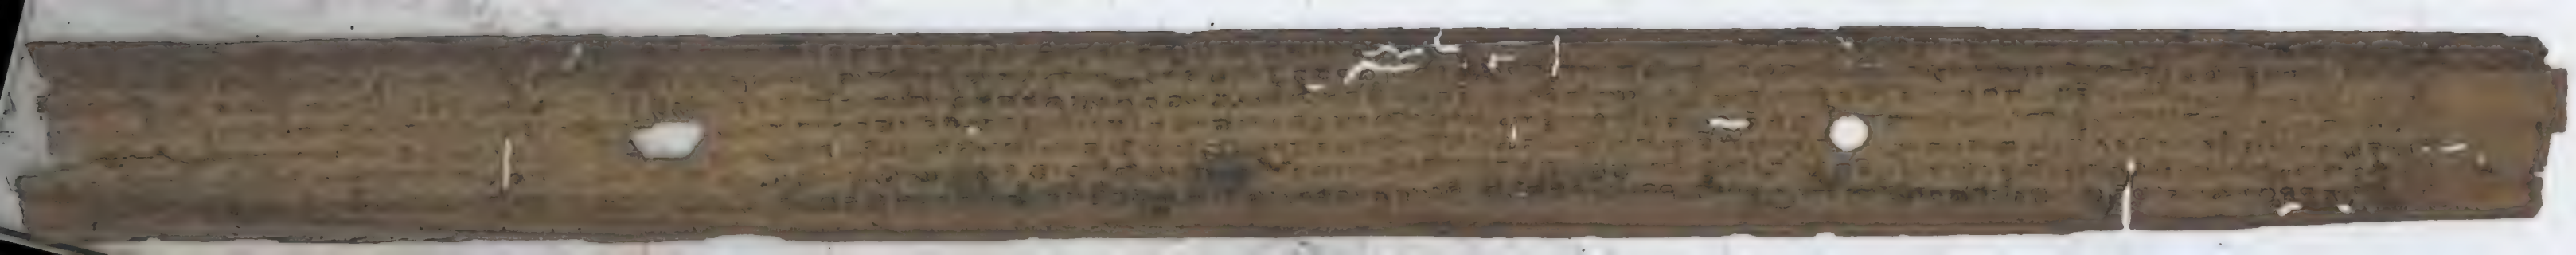

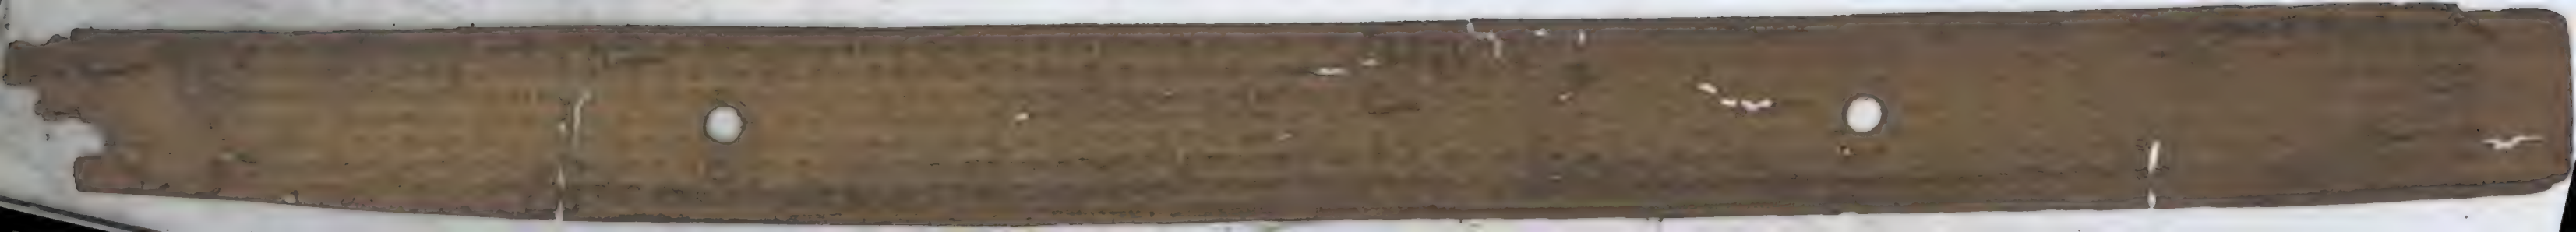

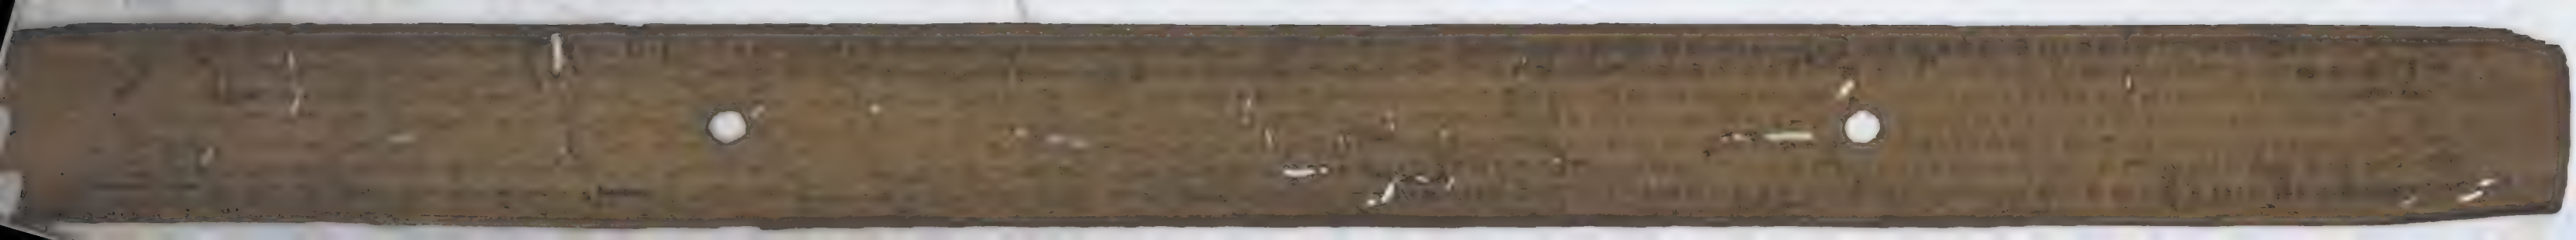

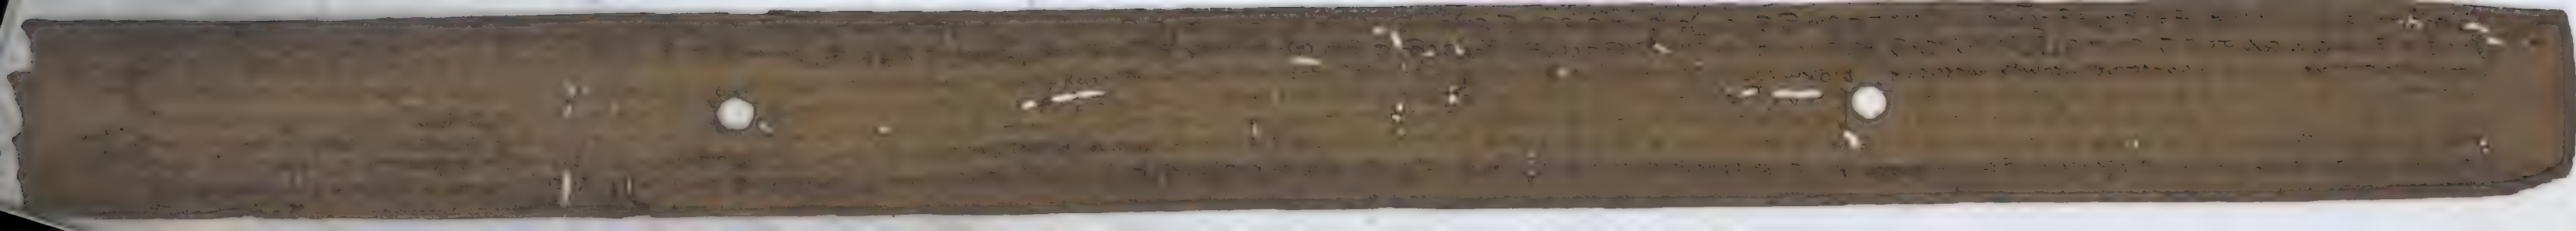

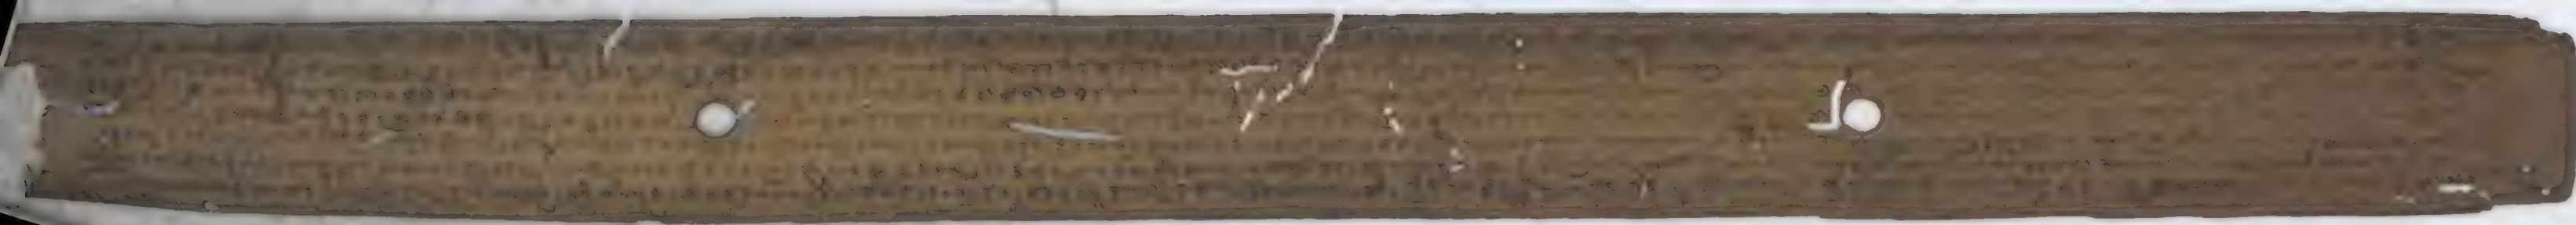

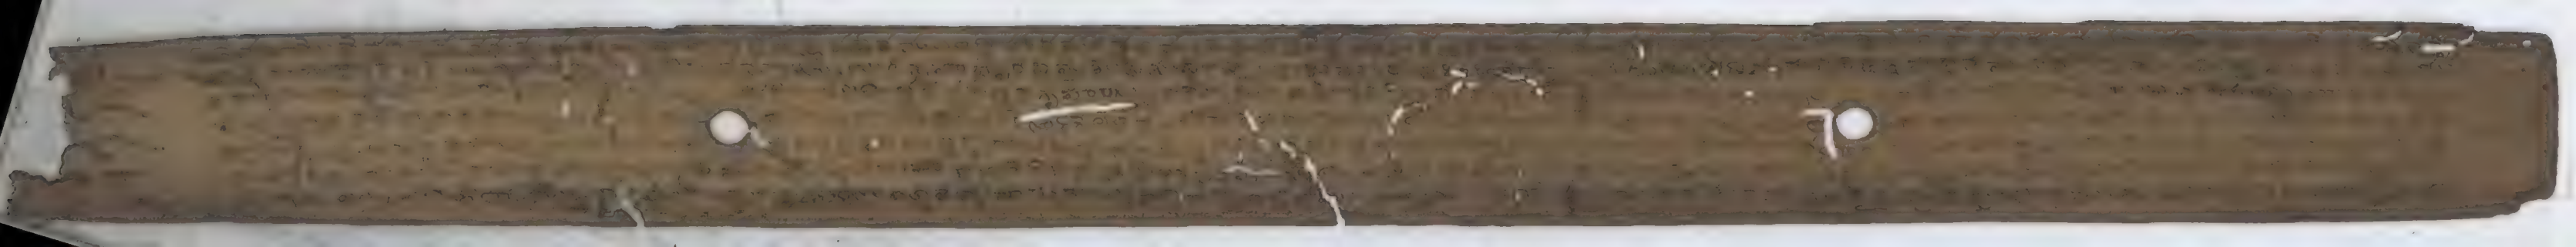

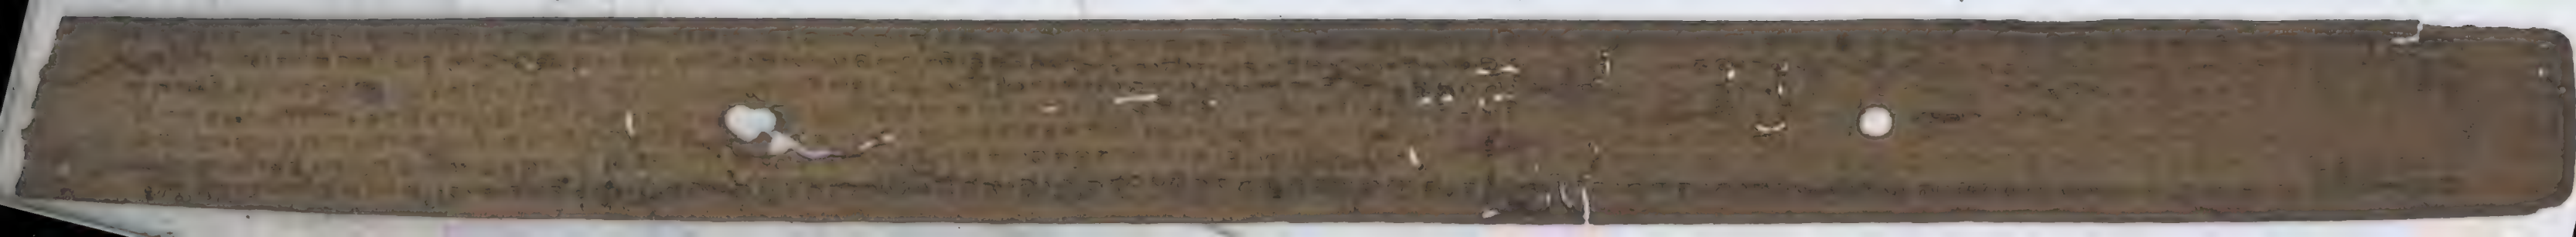

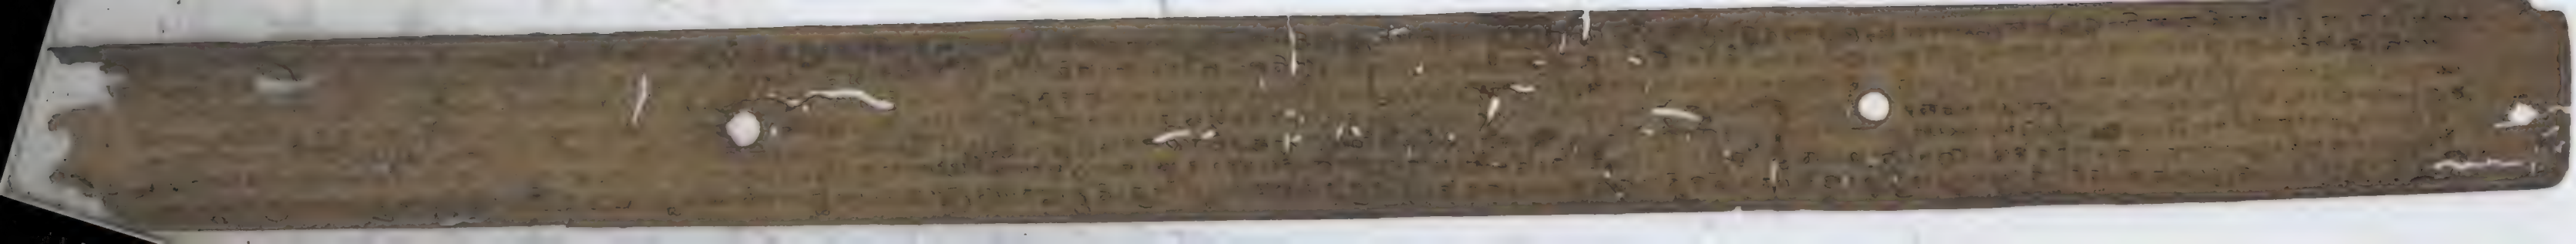

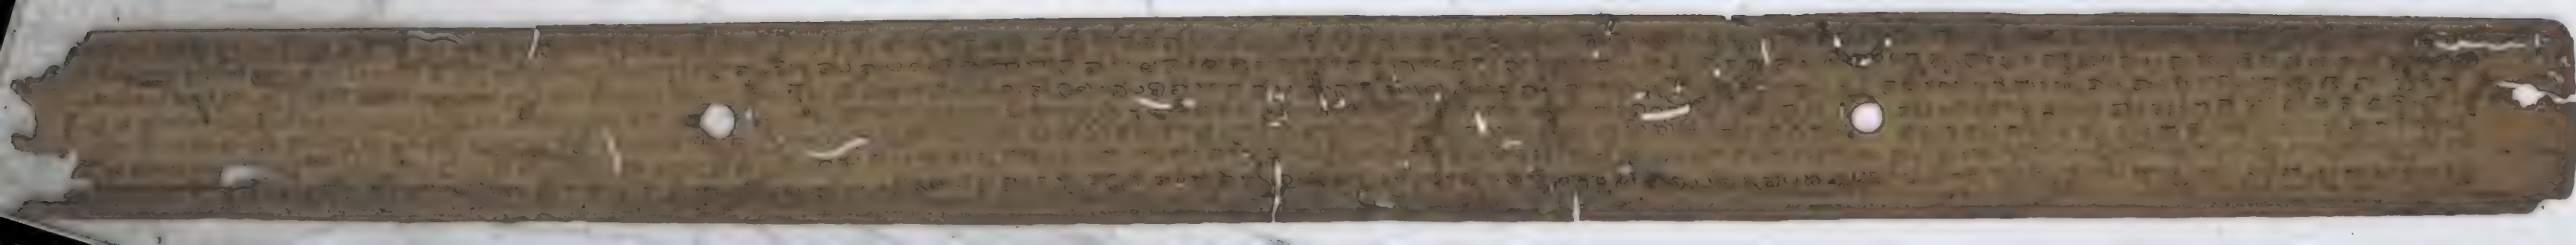

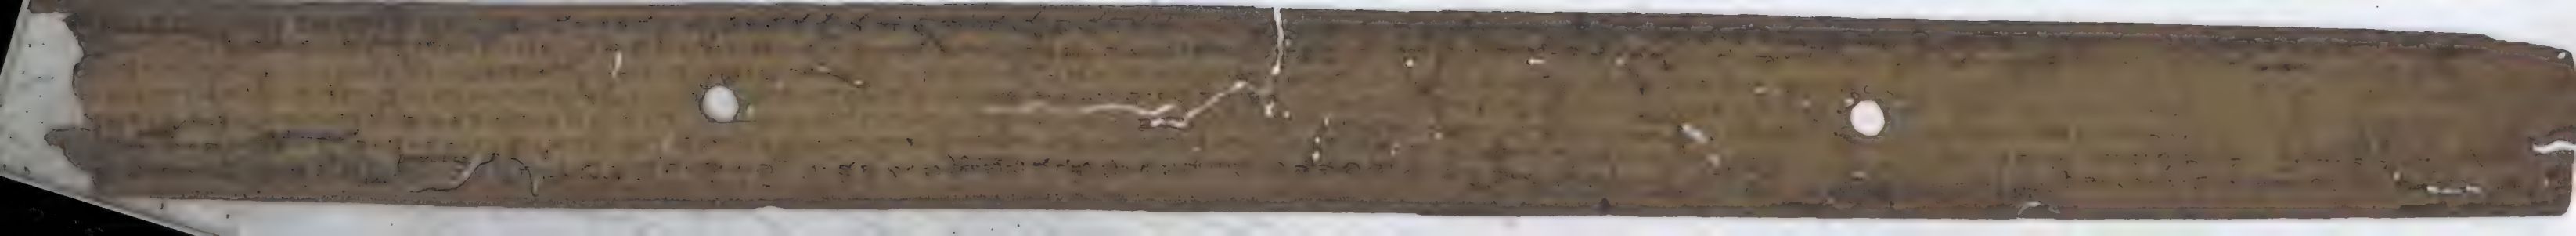

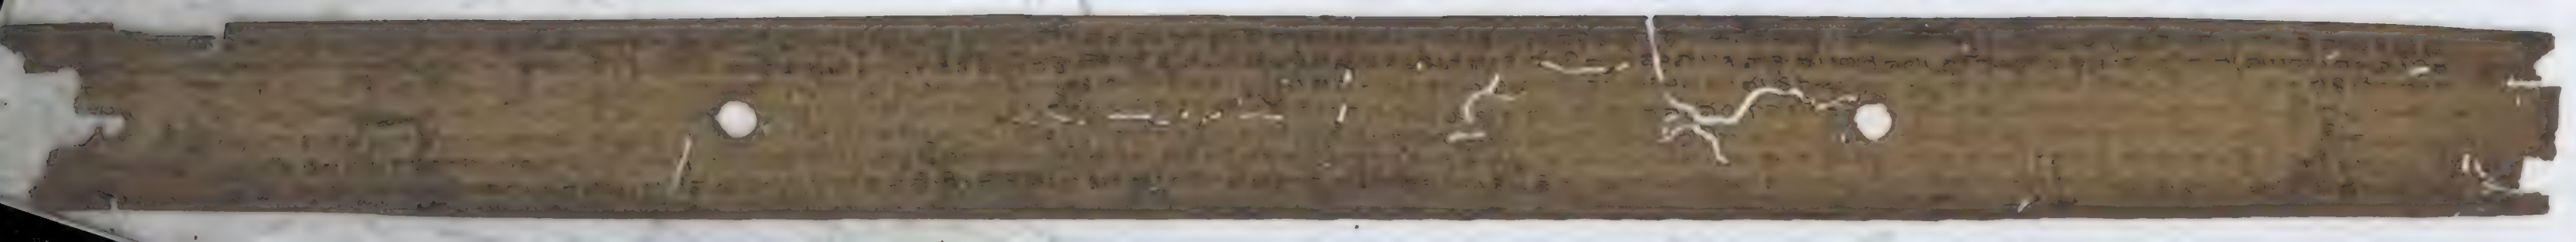

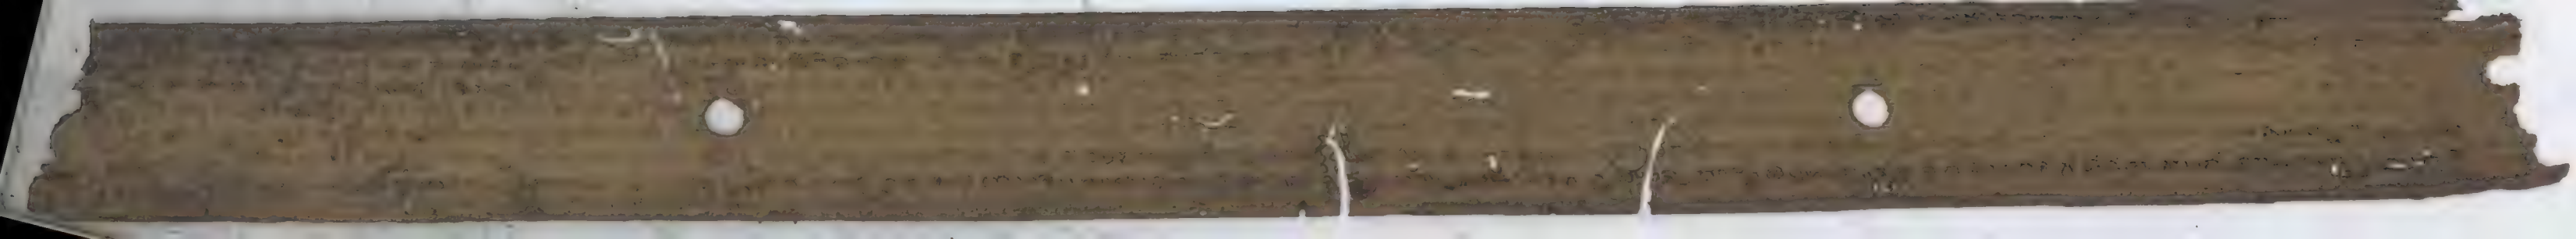

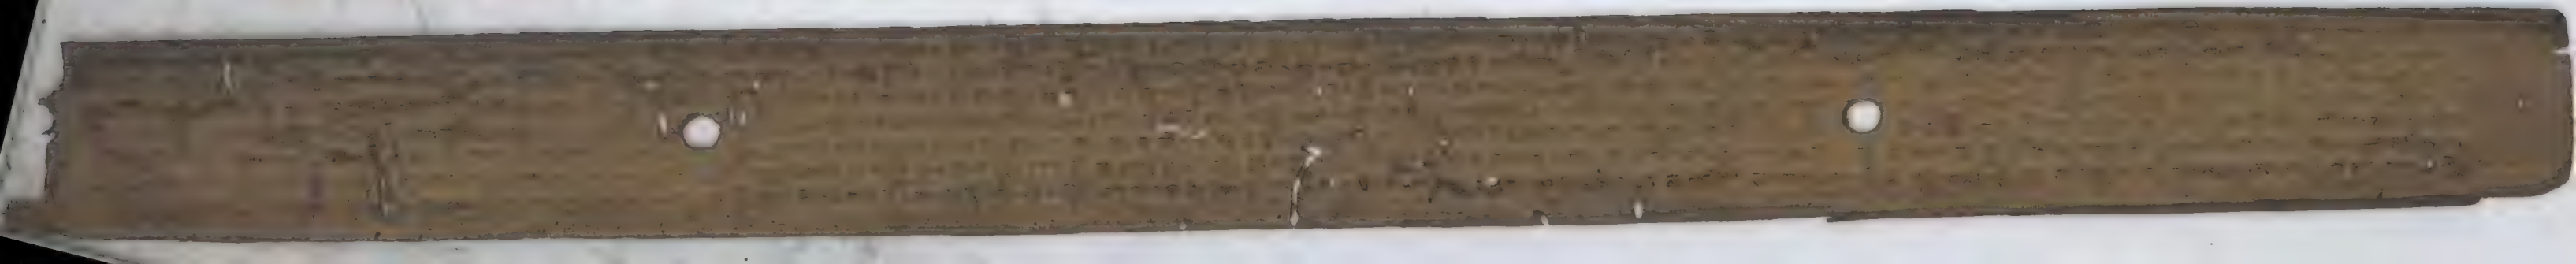

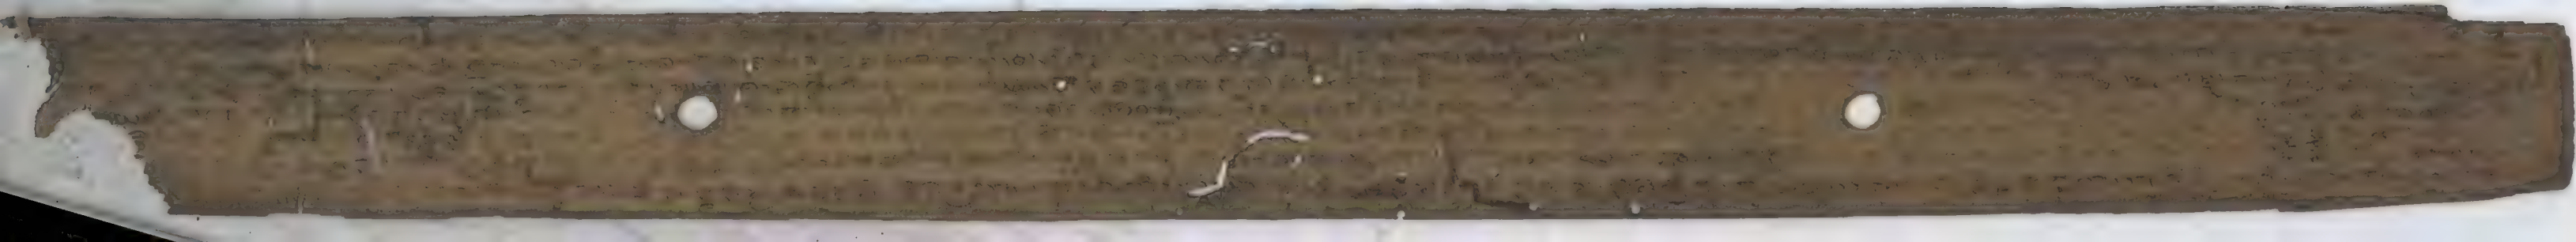

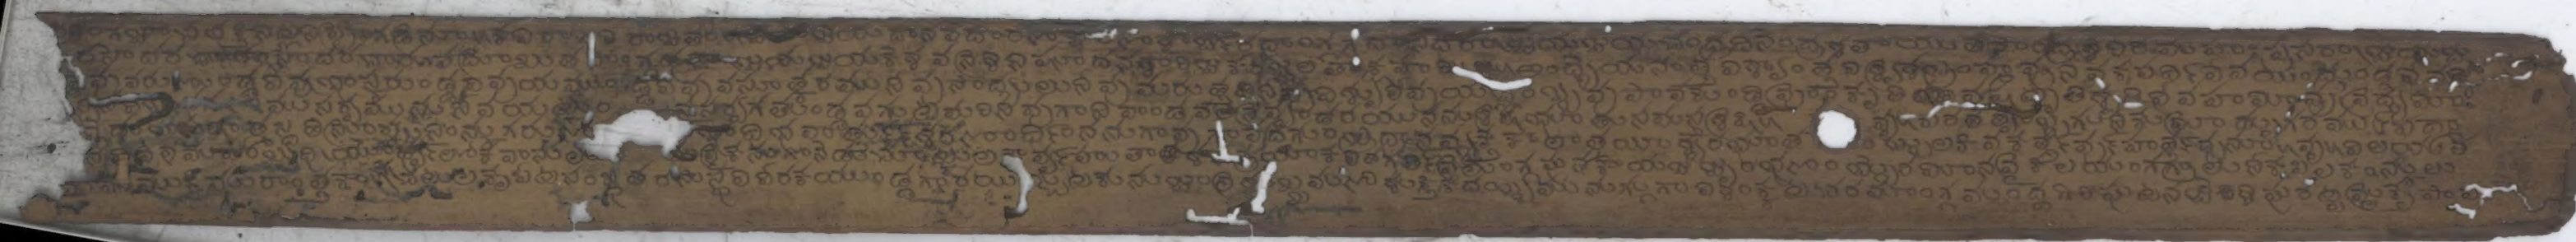

Handwritten text in a script, likely Kannada, inscribed on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the leaf. There are two circular holes visible, which are traditional for threading a cord to bind multiple leaves into a book format. The leaf shows signs of age and wear, with some discoloration and small tears.

Handwritten text in Kannada script on a palm leaf manuscript. The text is arranged in a single horizontal line across the length of the leaf. The script is finely etched into the surface of the dried leaf. There are several small, irregular white spots and a circular hole visible on the leaf, likely due to age or damage. The leaf is mounted on a light-colored background.

Handwritten text in a script, likely Telugu, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in a single line across the length of the leaf. There are several large, irregular holes and significant damage to the leaf, particularly on the left side and in the center. The script is finely etched into the surface of the dried leaf.
